Recorded within these pages is the history of the Sacramento Pioneer Association during the organization's formative first six years Founded in 1854 by pioneers of the California Gold Rush the Sacramento Pioneer Association was an historical civic and cultural society composed of some of Sacramento's most prominent men Transcribed from newspaper articles contemporary with that bygone era News of the Day is a journey back in time back to the American Victorian era of California back to the lives and times of the Sacramento Pioneers Dictionary Catalog of the Research Libraries of the New York Public Library, 1911-1971 New York Public Library. Research Libraries, 1979 Adolph Sutro William R. Huber, 2020-04-13 Adolph Sutro was forever seeking challenges Emigrating from Prussia to the U S at age 20 the California gold rush lured him west At the Comstock Lode in Nevada he conceived an idea for a tunnel to drain the hot water that made the mines perilous and inefficient But he would have to overcome both physical obstacles and powerful opposition by the Bank of California to realize his vision Back in San Francisco Sutro bought one twelfth of the city including the famous Cliff House perched over the Pacific Ocean When it burned to cinders on Christmas Day 1894 he built a massive eight story Victorian replacement He used his expertise in tunneling and water solutions to create the world's largest enclosed swimming structure the Sutro Baths six glass covered heated saltwater pools with capacity of 1 000 swimmers Other challenges followed but Sutro was not invincible After a two year term as mayor of San Francisco he succumbed to debilitating strokes which left him senile His death in 1898 started disputes among his heirs six children by his wife and two by his mistress that lasted more than a decade California Historical Society Quarterly California Historical Society, 1959

Herbert G. Ruffin, 2014-03-28 In the late 1960s African American protests and Black Power demonstrations in California's Santa Clara County including what's now called Silicon Valley took many observers by surprise. After all, as far back as the 1890s the California constitution had legally abolished most forms of racial discrimination and subsequent legal reform had surely taken care of the rest. White Americans might even have wondered where the black activists in the late sixties were coming from because beginning with the writings of Frederick Jackson Turner the most influential histories of the American West simply left out African Americans or later portrayed them as a passive and insignificant presence. Uninvited Neighbors puts black people back into the picture and dispels cherished myths about California's racial history. Reaching from the Spanish era to the valley's emergence as a center of the high tech industry this is the first comprehensive history of the African American experience in the Santa Clara Valley. Author Herbert G. Ruffin II's study presents the black experience in a new way with a focus on how despite their smaller numbers and obscure presence African Americans in the South Bay forged communities that had a regional and national impact disproportionate to their population. As the region industrialized and spawned suburbs during and after World War II its black citizens built institutions such as churches, social clubs, and civil rights organizations and challenged socioeconomic restrictions. Ruffin explores the quest of the area's black people for the postwar American Dream. The book also addresses the scattering of the black community during the region's late yet rapid urban growth after 1950 which led to the creation of several distinct black suburban communities clustered in metropolitan San Jose. Ruffin treats people of color as agents of their own development and survival in a region that was always multiracial and where slavery and Jim Crow did not predominate but where the white embrace of racial justice and equality was often insincere. The result offers a new view of the intersection of African American history and the history of the American West.
