Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Public Administration Select Committee, 2013-09-06 The Public Administration Select Committee PASC has concluded a year long inquiry into the future of the Civil Service with only one recommendation that Parliament should establish a Joint Committee of both Houses to sit as a Commission on the future of the Civil Service It should be constituted within the next few months and report before the end of the Parliament with a comprehensive change programme for Whitehall with a timetable to be implemented over the lifetime of the next Parliament The Report considers the increased tensions between ministers and officials which have become widely reported and places the problems in Whitehall in a wider context of a Civil Service built on the Northcote Trevelyan settlement established in 1853 and the Haldane principles of ministerial accountability set out in 1919 The government's Civil Service Reform Plan lacks strategic coherence and clear leadership from a united team of ministers and officials The Northcote Trevelyan Civil Service remains the most effective way of supporting the democratically elected Government and future administrations in the UK Divided leadership and confused accountabilities in Whitehall have led to problems a low level of engagement amongst civil servants in some departments and agencies and a general lack of trust and openness the Civil Service exhibits the key characteristics of a failing organisation with the leadership are in denial about the scale of the challenge they face There is a persistent lack of key skills and capabilities across Whitehall and an unacceptably high level of churn of lead officials which is incompatible with good government Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs United States.

Norrie, 2008-04-04 A trail of mismanaged or terminated projects in recent years has cost the North American economy 100 to 150 billion dollars annually in lost productivity and shareholders capital Unfortunately the gap between project selection and project execution is often symptomatic of the onset of Project Fog an all too familiar business situation in which projects are started and stopped constantly resources fall short of the project workload to be executed and in the end the entire effort is seen as a failure A guide to sidestepping the usual hazards that often spell Project Fog this book bridges the gap between executives who develop strategy and decide what projects get approved and the project managers who have to execute those projects flawlessly It provides a roadmap so that project managers can partner with executives to align their portfolio of projects with overall business strategy ensuring that things get done right To Investigate Executive Agencies United States. Congress. House.
