Arts Methods for the Self-Representation of Undergraduate Students Miranda Matthews, 2023-04-07 This timely book explores the transitional experiences of undergraduates in minority groups studying at university and how arts methods and practices can play an important role in facilitating these transitions Based on research from UK universities this volume is the first to draw together the experiences of educators in the humanities and social sciences who integrate sensory methodologies in taught curriculum in relation to arts educators who add extra curricular arts practice It offers an original contextualised analysis of how to enable university structures to adapt to complexity difference and diversity taking the view that arts practice forms meeting points for confident interconnection and spaces of self representation It outlines the novel concept of sensory transition in how arts practices can be used to address issues of inclusion diversity and self representation for minority groups Each chapter offers an in depth analysis of significant issues such as dimensions of race gender and class and the specificities of social and cultural group experiences as they occur in arts practice The book reflects on the decolonisation of university structures and curriculum and demonstrates how universities can support students and build spaces for self representation in academic courses Accessible and investigative this book is essential reading for academics researchers and postgraduate students in the field of higher education inclusion and arts methods It will also be of great interest to higher education staff interested in decolonisation diversity and university futures Exhibitions as Research

Peter Bjerregaard,2019-08-13 Exhibitions as Research contends that museums would be more attractive to both researchers and audiences if we consider exhibitions as knowledge in the making rather than platforms for disseminating already established insights Analysing the theoretical underpinnings and practical challenges of such an approach the book questions whether it is possible to exhibit knowledge that is still in the making whilst also considering which concepts of knowledge apply to such a format The book also considers what the role of audience might be if research is extended into the exhibition itself Providing concrete case studies of projects where museum professionals have approached exhibition making as a knowledge generating process the book considers tools of application and the challenges that might emerge from pursuing such an approach Theoretically the volume analyses the emergence of exhibitions as research as part of recent developments within materiality theories object oriented ontology and participatory approaches to exhibition making Exhibitions as Research will be of interest to academics and students engaged in the study of museology material culture anthropology and archaeology It will also appeal to museum professionals with an interest in current trends in exhibition making Literacy
