Making Crystal Jewelry:

Making Designer Seed Bead, Stone, and Crystal Jewelry Tammy Powley, 2006 Weaving tiny glass seed beads into jewelry is an ancient form of jewelry making dating back to early Native Americans and prehistoric African tribes Today seed beading also known as bead weaving is extremely popular By combining traditional seed bead techniques with a variety of other jewelry methods jewelry makers can dramatically expand the type of seed bead jewelry they make From learning established seed bead stitches to mastering a few simple wire and stringing steps this book shows beginners through advanced bead weavers how to make seed bead jewelry with a designer flair Beginners will find enough detailed instructions to help them get started with the craft while more advanced jewelry makers will find it helpful because it will provide new ideas for using stitches in different ways allowing them to incorporate stone and crystal beads instead of using seed beads alone for their jewelry designs The author takes the reader on a tour of bead weaving including providing information about the different kinds of seed beads including sizes and types plus descriptions of the various supplies needed She doesn't limit her discussion to only two types of stitches but provides instructions for ten different stitches before delving into the how to's for ten different breathtaking jewelry projects including diamond coral and gaspeite earrings a lacey emerald anklet radiant zircon earrings and much more

Globalization and economic restructuring have decimated formal jobs in developing countries pushing many women into informal employment such as direct selling of cosmetics, perfume and other personal care products as a way to make up the difference between household income and expenses. In Ecuador with its persistent economic crisis and few opportunities for financially and personally rewarding work, women increasingly choose direct selling as a way to earn income by activating their social networks. While few women earn the cars and trips that are iconic prizes in the direct selling organization, many use direct selling as part of a set of household survival strategies. In this first in-depth study of a cosmetics direct selling organization in Latin America, Erynn Masi de Casanova explores women's identities as workers including their juggling of paid work and domestic responsibilities, their ideas about professional appearance and their strategies for collecting money from customers. Focusing on women who work for the country's leading direct selling organization, she offers fascinating portraits of the everyday lives of women selling personal care products in Ecuador's largest city, Guayaquil. Addressing gender relations including a look at men's direct and indirect involvement, the importance of image and the social and economic context of direct selling, Casanova challenges assumptions that this kind of flexible employment resolves women's work-home conflicts and offers an important new perspective on women's work in developing countries.
