Home-making Course of Study for Junior High Schools Long Beach City Schools, 1929 How many Calories should we eat? David Broward, About 150 years ago the engineers and physicists used the calorie to measure the amount of energy required to heat one kilogram of water one degree Celsius Trying to determine the energy consumption of the human body scientists burned in the calorimeter various substances including food drinks and excrements and measured the difference in water temperature This is how we ended up with 9 Calories per gram for fat and 4 Calories per gram for protein and carbohydrates That s why water is the only substance that has Zero Calories and this is how the calorie found its niche in nutrition Yet have you ever wondered Why the Calorie is supposed to be capitalized when referring to the energetic value of foods and drinks Why there are 2 000 Calories per day used for general nutrition advice and not 1 500 2 400 2 700 or any other value What the claims found on the food labels actually mean Which carbs are good which ones are bad and why we witness a global epidemics of overweight obesity and diabetes What s the difference between saturated and unsaturated mono poly trans and interesterified fat Is there such a thing as a perfect diet Why in the countries that have adopted the Metric System the energy is expressed in kilojoules and not in Calories How much energy whether expressed in kilocalories or kilojoules a person needs a day This book proposes to find an answer to the above questions and many others by connecting the information from various fields of science including Physics Chemistry Biology and Thermodynamics Food Service Rebecca Thompson, 1991 Schools and Food Education in the 21st Century Lexi Earl, 2018-02-01 Schools and Food Education in the 21st Century examines how schools enact food policy and through doing so craft diverse foodscapes that create very different food experiences in schools The school food policy discourse is made up of an amalgamation of discourses on obesity prevention nutrition education welfarism and foodiness Whilst schools endeavor to enact policy in a variety of ways this book shows how foodiness is taken up and can only be taken up differently in different schools The book's unique contribution is to identify the discourse of foodiness and to show how this discourse whilst seemingly universal is actually situated in middle class ideas and is therefore more easily taken up by certain schools The book argues that the classed nature of foodiness leads to certain food knowledges becoming marginalized or lost and this then positions some schools in tension with their local communities resulting in widely variant food experiences for children Earl demonstrates how foodiness is taken up in schools by first exploring how the foodscape at school is shaped by policy and media sources The book then examines how foodiness is taken up by schools with different SES profiles by showing how food moves through the school day Asking critical questions on class and poverty that are often overlooked this book will be of interest to researchers academics and students working on food issues related to teaching food policy and schools in the fields of education sociology and food studies It should also be of interest to policymakers parents and teachers PGT Physical
