Building the Modern Church Robert Proctor, 2016-05-23 Fifty years after the Second Vatican Council architectural historian Robert Proctor examines the transformations in British Roman Catholic church architecture that took place in the two decades surrounding this crucial event Inspired by new thinking in theology and changing practices of worship and by a growing acceptance of modern art and architecture architects designed radical new forms of church building in a campaign of new buildings for new urban contexts A focussed study of mid twentieth century church architecture Building the Modern Church considers how architects and clergy constructed the image and reality of the Church as an institution through its buildings The author examines changing conceptions of tradition and modernity and the development of a modern church architecture that drew from the ideas of the liturgical movement The role of Catholic clergy as patrons of modern architecture and art and the changing attitudes of the Church and its architects to modernity are examined explaining how different strands of post war architecture were adopted in the field of ecclesiastical buildings The church building s social role in defining communities through rituals and symbols is also considered together with the relationships between churches and modernist urban planning in new towns and suburbs Case studies analysed in detail include significant buildings and architects that have remained little known until now Based on meticulous historical research in primary sources theoretically informed fully referenced and thoroughly illustrated this book will be of interest to anyone concerned with the church architecture art and theology of this period

Trade and Nation Emily Erikson, 2021-06-29 In the seventeenth century English economic theorists lost interest in the moral status of exchange and became increasingly concerned with the roots of national prosperity This shift marked the origins of classical political economy and provided the foundation for the contemporary discipline of economics The seventeenth century revolution in economic thought fundamentally reshaped the way economic processes have been interpreted and understood In Trade and Nation Emily Erikson brings together historical comparative and computational methods to explain the institutional forces that brought about this transformation Erikson pinpoints how the rise of the company form in confluence with the political marginalization of English merchants created an opening for public argumentation over economic matters Independent merchants who were excluded from state institutions and vast areas of trade confronted the power and influence of crown endorsed chartered companies Their distance from the halls of government drove them to take their case to the public sphere The number of merchant authored economic texts rose as members of this class sought to show that their preferred policies would contribute to the benefit of the state and commonwealth In doing so they created and disseminated a new moral framework of growth prosperity and wealth for evaluating economic behavior By using computational methods to document these processes Trade and Nation provides both compelling evidence and a prototype for how methodological innovations can help to provide new insights into large scale social processes

The Church of England and the Holocaust Tom Lawson, 2006 Explores the Church of England's understanding of the Third Reich and its impact on the reactions to and memory of the Holocaust in Britain Argues that the Anglican Church did not engage with the Third Reich through the prism of the persecution of the Jews English Christians commonly perceived Nazism as significant through its anti Christianity as an attack on Christian culture and not through its antisemitism In the 1930s the Church was opposed to war but when Nazi antisemitism became much more pronounced after 1938 the Church incorporated this persecution into its image of Nazism as anti Christian While there was some concern for Jewish victims especially on the part of George Bell and William Temple particular concern was expressed for the German Christian victims of totalitarianism This led the Anglican Church after the war to favor reconstruction of West Germany as a buffer against communism and anti Christianity The Church objected to war crimes trials as being opposed to Christian forgiveness vs the Jewish value of vengeance a view which sought to reduce the significance of Nazi antisemitism and the Holocaust The Churchman, 1892 The Printed Image in Early Modern London Joseph Monteyne, 2017-07-05 Presenting an inventive body of research that explores the connections between urban movements space and visual representation this study offers the first sustained analysis of the vital interrelationship between printed images and urban life in early modern London The study differs from all other books on early modern British print culture in that it seeks out printed forms that were active in shaping and negotiating the urban milieu prints that troubled categories of high and low culture images that emerged when the political became infused with the creative as well as prints that bear traces of the roles they performed and the ways they were used in the city It is distinguished by its close and sustained readings of individual prints from the likes of such artists as Wenceslaus Hollar Francis Barlow and William Faithorne and this visual analysis is complemented with a thorough examination of the dynamics of print production as a commercial exchange that takes place within a wider set of exchanges of goods people ideas and money across the city and the nation This study challenges scholars to re imagine the function of popular prints as a highly responsive form of cultural production capable not only of recording events spaces and social actions but profoundly shaping the way these entities are conceived in the moment and also recast within cultural memory It offers historians of print culture and British art a sophisticated and innovative model of how to mobilize rigorous archival research in the service of a thoroughly historicized and theorized analysis of visual representation and its relationship to space and social identity British Books ,1910 The Journal and Messenger ,1918 The Living Church ,1906

The Publishers' Circular and General Record of British and Foreign Literature ,1888 Episcopal Reform and Politics in Early Modern Europe Jennifer Mara DeSilva,2012-09-18 In the tumultuous period of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries when ecclesiastical reform spread across Europe the traditional role of the bishop as a public exemplar of piety morality and communal administration came under attack In communities where there was tension between religious groups or between spiritual and secular governing bodies the bishop became a lightning rod for struggles over hierarchical authority and institutional autonomy These struggles were intensified by the ongoing negotiation of the episcopal role and by increased criticism of the cleric especially during periods of religious war and in areas that embraced reformed churches This volume contextualizes the diversity of episcopal experience across early modern Europe while showing the similarity of goals and challenges among various confessional social and geographical communities Until now there have been few studies that examine the spectrum of responses to contemporary challenges the high expectations and the continuing pressure bishops faced in their public role as living examples of Christian ideals Contributors include William V Hudon Jennifer Mara DeSilva Raymond A Powell Hans Cools Antonella Perin John Alexander John Christopoulos Jill Fehleison Linda Lierheimer Celeste McNamara Jean Pascal Gay Fabricating Founders in Early Modern England Lauren Horn Griffin,2023-09-14 This book argues that in order to understand nationalisms we need a clearer understanding of the types of cultural myths symbols and traditions that legitimate them Myths of origin and election memories of a greater and purer past and narratives of persecution and mission are required for the production and maintenance of powerful national sentiments Through an investigation of how early modern Catholics and Protestants reimagined reinterpreted and rewrote the lives of the founder saints who spread Christianity in England this book offers a theoretical framework for the study of origin narratives Analyzing the discursive construction of time and place the invocation of forces beyond the human to naturalize and authorize and the role of visual and ritual culture in fabrications of the past this book provides a case study for how to approach claims about founding figures Serving as a timely example of the dependence of national identity on key religious resources Griffin shows how origin narratives particularly the founding figures that anchor them function as uniquely powerful rhetorical tools for the cultural production of regional and national identity The Modern British Essayists Francis Jeffrey, 1854 The Circulation of Poetry in Manuscript in Early Modern England Arthur F. Marotti, 2021-05-26 This study examines the transmission and compilation of poetic texts through manuscripts from the late Elizabethan era through the mid seventeenth century paying attention to the distinctive material social and literary features of these documents The study has two main focuses the first the particular social environments in which texts were compiled and second the presence within this system of a large body of usually anonymous rare or unique poems Manuscripts from aristocratic academic and urban professional environments are examined in separate chapters that highlight particular collections Two chapters consider the social networking within the university and London that facilitated the transmission within these environments and between them Although the topic is addressed throughout the study the place of rare or unique poems in manuscript collections is at the center of the final three chapters The book as a whole argues that scholars need to pay more attention to the social life of texts in the period and to little known or unknown rare or unique poems that represent a field of writing broader than that defined in a literary history based mainly on the products of print culture
