Attraction John S. Dinga, 2011-04 Part travelogue and part memoir John S Dinga's newest book is a sequel to Navigating the Contradictions of America and explores disparities between America's past and present from the perspective of an immigrant. Featuring characters both real and fictional Dinga shares his observations about the realities of making a new life in a new country with an occasional flashback to the former home. The desire to immigrate to America is one shared by people all over the world; people who are often unaware of what it takes to thrive in a competitive capitalist world where nothing is the same as before. Settling down in a new environment and navigating the politics and stresses of finding a job are just two of the aspects of culture shock a new immigrant will face. Expectations and responsibilities from those back home also add to the new immigrant's challenges, and Dinga offers his suggestions on how to thrive under those stresses as well. He speaks not only to the potential immigrant but to those officials in power on either side of the process as well. Learning to make the right choices when presented with so many options is another life lesson addressed. The American society's freedoms, choices, and government are envied in many corners of the world, and Dinga explores how that perception influences the decision to start the journey. People need to know that living in America has its challenges, challenges not often imagined when the desire to immigrate pushes them to cross deserts, oceans, and unfriendly skies. US Department of State Dispatch, 1994

American Sacred Space David Chidester, Edward T. Linenthal, 1995-11-22 In a series of pioneering studies, this book examines the creation and the conflict behind the creation of sacred space in America. The essays in this volume visit places in America where economic, political, and social forces clash over the sacred and the profane, from wilderness areas in the American West to the Mall in Washington, D.C., and they investigate visions of America as sacred space at home and abroad. Here are the beginnings of a new American religious history told as the story of the contested spaces it has inhabited. The contributors are David Chidester, Matthew Glass, Edward T. Linenthal, Colleen McDannell, Robert S. Michaelsen, Rowland A. Sherrill, and Bron Taylor.

United States Relations with South Africa Y. G.-M. Lulat, 2008 Relations between the United States and South Africa, or the parts of the world these nations now occupy, go nearly as far back as the very beginning of their inception as permanent European colonial intrusions. This book is a critical overview of these relations from the late seventeenth century to the present. Unprecedented in its scope and supported by substantive and detailed notes together with an extensive bibliography, chronology, glossary, and appendices, the book distinguishes itself from extant works in a number of other ways. Set against the backdrop of a wider interdisciplinary exploration of both ideational and structural issues of historical context, it not only gives attention to the importance of contributions from nonofficial actors in shaping official relations but also considers the impact of the geo-political location of South Africa within southern Africa, where the presence of other nations, particularly Angola, Mozambique, Namibia, and Zimbabwe, looms large. Methodologically written from the perspectives of both traditional narrative history and Khaldunian interpretive historical analysis, the book consequently sits at the interdisciplinary interstice of political economy and sociology where the aim is to advance our understanding of the Braudelian interconnectedness of world history as an important diachronic determinant of the diplomacy of foreign relations Written for both scholars and policy analysts this book s examination of the agency of the marginalized should also be of interest to activists and the reading public South Africa News Update ,1994 Consists of reproductions of articles from South African newspapers AF Press Clips ,1991 AF Press Clips United States Department of State.
