Myth Of Ritual A Natives Ethnography Of Zapotec Life Crisis Rituals:

The Myth of Ritual Fadwa El Guindi, Abel Hernández Jiménez, 1986 El Guindi taught Abel Hernández Jiménez a Zapotec Indian the formal techniques of ethnographic description and Hernández took part in observed and interpreted four Zapotec life crisis rituals baptism wedding funerals for married and unmarried persons Joined with Hernández's intimate portrayals of these rituals is El Guindi's test of structuralist theory to which she adds the thesis that ritual is analogous to myth inasmuch as it becomes a domain in which expression of the underlying culture is at its freest hence a myth of ritual Publisher

Zapotec Science Roberto J. González, 2010-01-01 2003 Julian Steward Award Anthropology Environment Section American Anthropological Association 2002 A CHOICE Outstanding Academic Book How Zapotec agricultural and dietary theories and practices constitute a valid local science Zapotec farmers in the northern sierra of Oaxaca Mexico are highly successful in providing their families with abundant nutritious food in an ecologically sustainable fashion although the premises that guide their agricultural practices would be considered erroneous by the standards of most agronomists and botanists in the United States and Europe In this book Roberto González convincingly argues that in fact Zapotec agricultural and dietary theories and practices constitute a valid local science which has had a reciprocally beneficial relationship with European and United States farming and food systems since the sixteenth century González bases his analysis upon direct participant observation in the farms and fields of a Zapotec village By using the ethnographic fieldwork approach he is able to describe and analyze the rich meanings that campesino families attach to their crops lands and animals González also reviews the history of maize sugarcane and coffee cultivation in the Zapotec region to show how campesino farmers have intelligently and scientifically adapted their farming practices to local conditions over the course of centuries By setting his ethnographic study of the Talea de Castro community within a historical world systems perspective he also skillfully weighs the local impact of national and global currents ranging from Spanish colonialism to the 1910 Mexican Revolution to NAFTA At the same time he shows how at the turn of the twenty first century the sustainable practices of traditional subsistence agriculture are beginning to replace the failed unsustainable techniques of modern industrial farming in some parts of the United States and Europe Ibss: Anthropology: 1986 International Committee for Social Science Information and Documentation, 1990 IBSS is the essential tool for librarians university departments research institutions and any public or private institution whose work requires access to up to date and comprehensive knowledge of the social sciences

Ethnography Harry F. Wolcott, 1999 Harry Wolcott one of anthropology's leading writers on ethnographic methods here addresses the nature of the ethnographic enterprise itself Tracing its development from its disciplinary origins in sociology and anthropology he helps the reader understand what is distinctive about ethnography and what it means to conduct research in the ethnographic tradition In this engaging thought provoking book he distinguishes ethnography as more than just a set of field methods and practices separating it from many related qualitative research traditions as a way of seeing through the lens of culture For both beginning and experienced ethnographers in a wide range of disciplines Wolcott's book will provide important ideas for improving research practice

The Mexican Urban Household Henry A. Selby, Arthur D. Murphy, Stephen A. Lorenzen, 2014-05-23 The sufferings of ordinary people under harsh economic conditions can eventually lead to the fall of governments Given this fact it becomes important to know how ordinary people live what privations they suffer and what strategies they use to survive in times of economic crisis The Mexican Urban Household provides this information for Mexico near the end of the twentieth century Mexico is now a predominantly urban nation and this study is the definitive work on the strategies of self defense of its urban households It is based on surveys of nearly 10 000 households conducted during twenty years of field work in five very different cities with the help of a staff of more than twenty Mexican social scientists engineers architects and social workers Far from being a compilation of undigested statistics however The Mexican Urban Household uses its rich data to vividly reveal how Mexican families use their every resource to defend themselves against a political and economic system that overwhelms and exploits them It describes how families band together sometimes with three generations in one small house to minimize expenses and pool resources It explores the limited range of available jobs from secure but scarce bureaucratic positions to more common and less reliable jobs in blue collar industries and the informal economy And most important it traces the high cost to families particularly to women of the endless struggle to make ends meet These important findings outline the dimensions of the economic crisis for ordinary Mexicans It will be crucial reading not only for everyone interested in the future of Mexico but also for students of development throughout the Third World out the volume The result is an essential guide for all scholars professionals and advanced students who employ fieldwork

Cultural Shaping of Violence Myrdene Anderson, 2004 Violence and increasing public awareness of violence mark society's contemporary condition Sept 11 2001 made this condition even more indelible Cultural Shaping of Violence proposes that violence cannot be described let alone understood or addressed unless tied to the cultural settings that influence it The book's 27 chapters researched and written by 28 scholars of seven nationalities document violence in 22 distinct cultural settings in 17 nation states on five continents Internal to each society a number of sites of violence may thrive from the domestic sphere to social institutions and political arenas In whatever site or guise violence reverberates throughout the social fabric and beyond Nubian Encounters Nicholas S. Hopkins, Sohair R. Mehanna, 2010-11-01 In the 1960s the construction of the Aswan High Dam occasioned the forced displacement of a large part of the Nubian population Beginning in 1960 anthropologists at the American University in Cairo's Social Research Center undertook a survey of the Nubians to be moved and those already outside their historic homeland The goal was to record and analyze Nubian culture and social organization to create a record for the future and to preserve a body of information on which scholars and officials could draw This book chronicles the research carried out by an international team with the cooperation of many Nubians Gathered into one volume for the first time are reprinted articles that provide a valuable resource of research data on the Nubian project as well as photographs taken during the field study that document ways of life that have long since disappeared Female Circumcision Rogaia Mustafa Abusharaf, 2006 Bolokoli khifad tahara tahoor qudiin irua bondo kuruna negekorsigin and kene kene are a few of the terms used in local African languages to denote a set of cultural practices collectively known as female circumcision Practiced in many countries across Africa and Asia this ritual is hotly debated Supporters regard it as a central coming of age ritual that ensures chastity and promotes fertility Human rights groups denounce the procedure as barbaric It is estimated that between 100 million and 130 million girls and women today have undergone forms of this genital surgery Female Circumcision gathers together African activists to examine the issue within its various cultural and historical contexts the debates on circumcision regarding African refugee and immigrant populations in the United States and the human rights efforts to eradicate the practice This work brings African women's voices into the discussion foregrounds indigenous processes of social and cultural change and demonstrates the manifold linkages between respect for women's bodily integrity the empowerment of women and democratic modes of economic development This volume does not focus narrowly on female circumcision as a set of ritualized surgeries sanctioned by society Instead the contributors explore a chain of connecting issues and processes through which the practice is being transformed in local and transnational contexts The authors document shifts in local views to highlight processes of change and chronicle the efforts of diverse communities as agents in the process of cultural and social transformation
