Human Factors Challenges in Emergency Management Christine Owen,2017-09-29 This book provides an overview of state of the art research that has been conducted within Australia funded by the Bushfire Cooperative Research Centre The chapters source and contextualize their own research practice within the context of the international research literature Therefore while the research has occurred within Australia it will be of particular interest to scholars students and practitioners in a number of other countries particularly within the United States of America and in Europe The fire and emergency services is a particularly large industry in Australia alone it employs 250 000 personnel yet there is very little by way of published human factors books addressing this sector directly Emergency events frequently involve problems for which there may be unanticipated consequences and highly interdependent consequential effects In short emergency events are not necessarily as containable as may be work in other domains As Karl Weick once commented emergency events do not play by the rules This means that these research chapters tell us something about a potential future world of work that is highly dynamic interdependent and for which improvisation and critical thinking and problem solving are necessary pre requisites The discussions about individual and team performance will also be pertinent to others working in similar high reliability high consequence domains The chapters connect into an integrated body of work about individual and group performance and their limitations

Integrating Human Aspects in Production Management Gert Zülch,Harinder Singh Jagdev,Patricia Stock,2006-01-03 In recent years the situation of production enterprises has been aggravated by the change from a vendors market to a buyers market the globalisation of competition a severe market segmentation and rapid progress in product and process technologies Beside cost and quality time has taken on an increasingly important role forcing enterprises to become ever more dynamic and versatile Therefore in all areas of production management novel effective concepts procedures and tools have been developed in order to meet these new requirements But beyond these more technical organisational and information technology related aspects there is certainly another one which has to be considered more closely than ever before namely that of human resources Is not group technology also related to group work Do partners in a global network only operate according to predefined process schemes with no personal contact Are the mental process models of the programmers of ERP systems the same as those of the users What is the impact of human behaviour and what consequences are to be expected if organisational and individual objectives are separated And finally how do necessary technological changes affect the workforce and the individual needs and wishes of the employees South African Human Resource Management Ben Swanepoel, 2003 South African Human Resource Management focuses on the knowledge and skills that managers at all levels need The authors integrate contemporary international research and implementation with a South African perspective
