Green Desire Rebecca Weld Bushnell, 2018-07-05 For Rebecca Bushnell English gardening books tell a fascinating tale of the human love for plants and our will to make them do as we wish These books powerfully evoke the desires of gardeners they show us gardeners who like poets imagine not just what is but what should be In particular the earliest English garden books such as Thomas Hill's The Gardeners Labyrinth or Hugh Platt's Floraes Paradise mix magical practices with mundane recipes even when the authors insist that they rely completely on their own experience in these matters Like early modern books of secrets early gardening manuals often promise the reader power to alter the essential properties of plants to make the gillyflower double to change the lily's hue or to grow a cherry without a stone Green Desire describes the innovative design of the old manuals examining how writers and printers marketed them as fiction as well as practical advice for aspiring gardeners Along with this attention to the delights of reading it analyzes the strange dignity and pleasure of garden labor and the division of men's and women's roles in creating garden art The book ends by recounting the heated debate over how much people could do to create marvels in their own gardens For writers and readers alike these green desires inspired dreams of power and self improvement fantasies of beauty achieved without work and hopes for order in an unpredictable world not so different from the dreams of gardeners today Landscapes and Gardens for Historic Buildings Rudy J. Favretti, Joy P. Favretti, 1997 Well illustrated chapters describe how to select the right period design for the garden yard and grounds of a historic building how to research and plan development how to find and identify authentic plants and how to maintain the landscape once it's restored Included is the most complete list ever published of plants and flowers and the dates they came into popular use Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Gardens Across America, East of the Mississippi John H.
