Echoing Silence Thomas Merton,2007-02-13 When Thomas Merton entered a Trappist monastery in December 1941 he turned his back on secular life including a very promising literary career He sent his journals a novel in progress and copies of all his poems to his mentor Columbia professor Mark Van Doren for safe keeping fully expecting to write little if anything ever again It was a relatively short lived resolution for Merton almost immediately found himself being assigned writing tasks by his Abbot one of which was the autobiographical essay that blossomed into his international best seller The Seven Storey Mountain That book made him famous overnight and for a time he struggled with the notion that the vocation of the monk and the vocation of the writer were incompatible Monasticism called for complete surrender to the absolute whereas writing demanded a tactical withdrawal from experience in order to record it He eventually came to accept his dual vocation as two sides of the same spiritual coin and used it as a source of creative tension the rest of his life Merton's thoughts on writing have never been compiled into a single volume until now Robert Inchausti has mined the vast Merton literature to discover what he had to say on a whole spectrum of literary topics including writing as a spiritual calling the role of the Christian writer in a secular society the joys and mysteries of poetry and evaluations of his own literary work Also included are fascinating glimpses of his take on a range of other writers including Henry David Thoreau Flannery O Connor Dylan Thomas Albert Camus James Joyce and even Henry Miller along with many others explored ranging from Europe to Asia and from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century Even though every pilgrimage that is investigated here has helped to link different worlds the case studies show that this relationship rarely led to a better in inter understanding Nowadays peaceful coexistence seems to be its greatest achievement The Germ: Thoughts increasing and more unrelenting pace relations among the world s religions are taking on both a new visibility and a new urgency Christian theologians and others intent on innovative formulations in the theology of religions are making interreligious dialogue with non Christians a priority One way to promote creative scholarship in this quest is to tap into interdisciplinary resources and the author of this volume is uniquely qualified to do so since he holds graduate degrees in both theology and cultural anthropology Aaron Thomas Raverty s Refuge in Crestone A Sanctuary for Interreligious Dialogue elucidates how the praxis of interreligious dialogue as outlined in key Vatican documents in the Catholic Church could be better served by attending to the qualitative ethnographic methods of sociocultural anthropology Because the material behavioral and cognitive aspects of dialogue as revealed in daily life common social and political action religious experience and theological exchange are embedded in culture they are amenable to ethnographic analysis Using the unique multi religious Colorado site of Crestone and its environs as a fieldwork laboratory and self described Refuge for World Truths the ethnographic data gleaned from this project exemplify the creative interdisciplinary contributions of anthropology to theologizing It seeks to demonstrate using an empirical multi religious community as its focus how anthropology can support interreligious dialogue The results of such dialogue could not only assist the scholarly community by helping theologians arrive at new formulations in the burgeoning area of the theology of religions but might also serve the more practical goal of promoting peace as an alternative to violence in today s complex and sorely troubled world Heavenly Venerate of Five
