Making Human Rights Work Globally:

Making Human Rights Work Globally Anthony Woodiwiss, 2012-09-10 This book is one of the first studies in the new field of the sociology of human rights and it centres its analysis on labour rights Such rights are of critical importance in this field work being the defining aspect of many peoples lives and a central concern of sociology Making Sovereign Financing and Human Rights Work Juan Pablo Bohoslavsky, Jernej Letnar Cernic, 2014-12-01 Poor public resource management and the global financial crisis curbing fundamental fiscal space millions thrown into poverty and authoritarian regimes running successful criminal campaigns with the help of financial assistance are all phenomena that raise fundamental questions around finance and human rights They also highlight the urgent need for more systematic and robust legal and economic thinking about sovereign finance and human rights This edited collection aims to contribute to filling this gap by introducing novel legal theories and analyses of the links between sovereign debt and human rights from a variety of perspectives These chapters include studies of financial complicity UN sanctions ethics transitional justice criminal law insolvency proceedings millennium development goals global financial architecture corporations extraterritoriality state of necessity sovereign wealth and hedge funds project financing state responsibility international financial institutions the right to development UN initiatives litigation as well as case studies from Africa Asia and Latin America These chapters are then theorised by the editors in an introductory chapter In July 2012 the UN Human Rights Council finally issued its own guidelines on foreign debt and human rights yet much remains to be done to promote better understanding of the legal and economic implications of the interface between finance and human rights This book will contribute to that understanding as well as help practitioners in their everyday work The authors include world renowned lawyers and economists experienced practitioners and officials from international organisations The Harmonisation of National Legal Systems Antonios E. Hafner-Burton, 2013-03-21 In the last six decades one of the most striking developments in international law is the emergence of a massive body of legal norms and procedures aimed at protecting human rights In many countries though there is little relationship between international law and the actual protection of human rights on the ground Making Human Rights a Reality takes a fresh look at why it s been so hard for international law to have much impact in parts of the world where human rights are most at risk Emilie Hafner Burton argues that more progress is possible if human rights promoters work strategically with the group of states that have dedicated resources to human rights protection These human rights stewards can focus their resources on places where the tangible benefits to human rights are greatest Success will require setting priorities as well as engaging local stakeholders such as nongovernmental organizations and national human rights institutions To date promoters of international human rights law have relied too heavily on setting universal goals and procedures and not enough on assessing what actually works and setting priorities Hafner Burton illustrates how with a different strategy human rights stewards can make international law more effective and also safeguard human rights for more of the world population
