Making Of Modern Advertising:

The King of Madison Avenue Kenneth Roman, 2010-06-08 From the former CEO of Ogilvy Mather the first biography of advertising maverick David Ogilvy Famous for his colorful personality and formidable intellect David Ogilvy left an indelible mark on the advertising world transforming it into a dynamic industry full of passionate creative individuals This first ever biography traces Ogilvy s remarkable life from his short lived college education and undercover work during World War II to his many successful years in New York advertising Ogilvy s fascinating life and career make for an intriguing study from both a biographical and a business standpoint The King of Madison Avenue is based on a wealth of material from decades of working alongside the advertising giant including a large collection of photos memos recordings notes and extensive archives of Ogilvy s personal papers The book describes the creation of some of history s most famous advertising campaigns such as The man in the Hathaway shirt with his aristocratic eye patch The man from Schweppes is here with Commander Whitehead the elegant bearded Brit introducing tonic water and Schweppes to the U S Perhaps the most famous automobile headline of all time At 60 miles an hour the loudest noise in this new Rolls Royce comes from the electric clock Pablo Casals is coming home to Puerto Rico Ogilvy said this campaign which helped change the image of a country was his proudest achievement And his greatest if less recognized sales success DOVE creams your skin while you wash Roman also carries Ogilvy s message into the present day showing the contemporary relevance of the bottom line focus for which his business ventures are remembered and how this approach is still key for professionals in the modern advertising world Media and the Making of Modern Germany Corey Ross, 2008-08-14 Media and the Making of Modern Germany provides the first full account of the expansion of the mass media in Germany up to the Second World War examining how the rise of film radio recorded music popular press and advertising fitted into the wider development of social political and cultural life Media

Richard Ohmann, 1996-11-25 An inside look at cultural industries featuring interviews with key players from such companies as Twentieth Century Fox National Public Radio and Coca Cola To what extent do moviemakers television and radio producers advertising executives and marketers merely reflect trends beliefs and desires that already exist in our culture and to what extent do they consciously shape our culture to their own ends In depth interviews with ten executives from the culture industry and five scholarly analyses examine that question and address the issues of power and authority meaning and identity that arise when cultural producers define and react to audiences In their own words leaders from companies like

Twentieth Century Fox National Public Radio and Warner Bros Television describe their perception of the sometimes paradoxical relationship between culture and what influences it. For example, while the former president of Coca-Cola North America claims the company has never tried to create a trend, he notes that we market in more countries than belong to the United Nations, a product that has insinuated itself into the lives of the people to a point where it has become you know it's there. These reflections by key players provide an unprecedented view as editor Richard Ohmann writes into the ways cultural producers imagine or know markets and how such knowledge figures in their decisions about what events, experiences, and products to make.

Artists, Advertising, and the Borders of Art Michele H. Bogart, 1995. In the first study of its kind, Michele H. Bogart explores in unprecedented detail the world of commercial art: its illustrators, publishers, art directors, photographers, and painters. She maps out the border between art and commerce and expands our picture of artistic culture and practice in the twentieth century with unexpected pairings of Norman Rockwell and Andy Warhol, J.C. Leyendecker and Georgia O'Keeffe, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and Pepsi-Cola, the avant-garde and the Famous Artists Schools, Inc.

Advertising at War Inger L. Stole, 2012-11-16. Advertising at War challenges the notion that advertising disappeared as a political issue in the United States in 1938 with the passage of the Wheeler-Lea Amendment to the Federal Trade Commission Act, the result of more than a decade of campaigning to regulate the advertising industry. Inger L. Stole suggests that the war experience, even more than the legislative battles of the 1930s, defined the role of advertising in U.S. postwar political economy and the nation's cultural firmament. She argues that Washington and Madison Avenue were soon working in tandem with the creation of the Advertising Council in 1942, a joint effort established by the Office of War Information, the Association of National Advertisers, and the American Association of Advertising Agencies. Using archival sources, newspapers, accounts, and trade publications, Stole demonstrates that the war elevated and magnified the seeming contradictions of advertising and allowed critics of these practices one final opportunity to corral and regulate the institution of advertising. Exploring how New Dealers and consumer advocates such as the Consumers Union battled the advertising industry, Advertising at War traces the debate over two basic policy questions: whether advertising should continue to be a tax-deductible business expense during the war and whether the government should require effective standards and labeling for consumer products, which would render most advertising irrelevant. Ultimately, the postwar climate of political intolerance and reverence for free enterprise quashed critical investigations into the advertising industry. While advertising could be criticized or lampooned, the institution itself became inviolable.

Selling Culture Richard Malin Ohmann, 1996. Surveys the new practices of advertising, mass distribution of goods, and the birth of the inexpensive mass audience magazine at the end of the 19th century and their role in the creation of the American professional managerial class. Focuses on magazine publishing careers of key personalities in the publishing world and the role of fiction in the magazines. For students and

Vaughn,2007-12-11 The Encyclopedia of American Journalism explores the distinctions found in print media radio television and the internet This work seeks to document the role of these different forms of journalism in the formation of America s understanding and reaction to political campaigns war peace protest slavery consumer rights civil rights immigration unionism feminism environmentalism globalization and more This work also explores the intersections between journalism and other phenomena in American Society such as law crime business and consumption The evolution of journalism s ethical standards is discussed as well as the important libel and defamation trials that have influenced journalistic practice its legal protection and legal responsibilities Topics covered include Associations and Organizations Historical Overview and Practice Individuals Journalism in American History Laws Acts and Legislation Print Broadcast Newsgroups and Corporations Technologies Kitchen Literacy Ann Vileisis,2008-02 Ask children where food comes from and they ll probably answer the supermarket Ask most adults and their replies may not be much different Where our foods are raised and what happens to them between farm and supermarket shelf have become mysteries How did we become so disconnected from the sources of our breads beef cheeses cereal apples and countless other foods that nourish us every day Ann Vileisis s answer is a sensory rich journey through the history of making dinner Kitchen Literacy takes us from an eighteenth century garden to today s sleek supermarket aisles and eventually to farmer s markets that are now enjoying a resurgence Vileisis chronicles profound changes in how American cooks have considered their foods over two centuries and delivers a powerful statement what we don t know could hurt us As the distance between farm and table grew we went from knowing particular places and specific stories behind our foods origins to instead relying on advertisers claims The woman who raised plucked and cooked her own chicken knew its entire life history while today most of us have no idea whether hormones were fed to our poultry Industrialized eating is undeniably convenient but it has also created health and environmental problems including food borne pathogens toxic pesticides and pollution from factory farms Though the hidden costs of modern meals can be high Vileisis shows that greater understanding can lead consumers to healthier and more sustainable choices Revealing how knowledge of our food has been lost and how it might now be regained Kitchen Literacy promises to make us think differently about what we eat Selling the American People Lee Mcguigan,2023-07-18 How marketers learned to dream of optimization and speak in the idiom of management science well before the widespread use of the Internet Algorithms data extraction digital marketers monetizing eyeballs these all seem like such recent features of our lives And yet Lee McGuigan tells us in this eye opening book digital advertising was well underway before the widespread use of the Internet Explaining how marketers have brandished the tools of automation and management science to exploit new profit opportunities Selling the American People traces data driven surveillance all the way back to the 1950s when the computerization of the advertising business began to blend science technology and calculative cultures in an ideology of optimization With that ideology came adtech a major infrastructure of digital capitalism To help make sense of today s attention merchants and choice architects McGuigan explores a few key questions How did technical experts working at the intersection of data processing and management sciences come to command the center of gravity in the advertising and media industries How did their ambition to remake marketing through mathematical optimization shape and reflect developments in digital technology In short where did adtech come from and how did data driven marketing come to mediate the daily encounters of people products and public spheres His answers show how the advertising industry s efforts to bend information technologies toward its dream of efficiency and rational management helped to make surveillance capitalism one of the defining experiences of public life Constructing and Reconstructing Gender Linda A. M. Perry,Lynn H. Turner,Helen M. Sterk,Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender,1992-01-01 A multifaceted analysis of gender The Commercialization of News in the Nineteenth Century Gerald J. Baldasty,1992-11-15 The Commercialization of News in the Nineteenth Century traces the major transformation of newspapers from a politically based press to a commercially based press in the nineteenth century Gerald J Baldasty argues that broad changes in American society the national economy and the newspaper industry brought about this dramatic shift Increasingly in the nineteenth century news became a commodity valued more for its profitability than for its role in informing or persuading the public on political issues Newspapers started out as highly partisan adjuncts of political parties As advertisers replaced political parties as the chief financial support of the press they influenced newspapers in directing their content toward consumers especially women The results were recipes fiction contests and features on everything from sports to fashion alongside more standard news about politics Baldasty makes use of nineteenth century materials newspapers from throughout the era manuscript letters from journalists and politicians journalism and advertising trade publications government reports to document the changing role of the press during the period He identifies three important phases the partisan newspapers of the Jacksonian era 1825 1835 the transition of the press in the middle of the century and the influence of commercialization of the news in the last two decades of the century The Progress of Experiment Harry M. Marks, 1997 How do we evaluate the safety and benefit of new drugs What tasks do we hold the government responsible for and which ones do we leave to the medical profession Harry Marks explores the origins of our contemporary system of drug regulation and the modern clinical trial He shows that the story of modern drug regulation is synonymous with the history of therapeutic reform Accompanying this history of public policy is a detailed account of changing experimental ideal and practices Marks follows the history of therapeutic experimentation from the collective investigations of the last century to the controlled clinical trial which emerged after 1950 as the paradigm of scientific experimentation The result is the first general history of clinical research in the United States a book which examines therapeutic experiments in a wide range of diseases from syphilis and pneumonia to heart disease and diabetes
