The Invention of God in Indigenous Societies James Cox, 2014-09-19 Indigenous societies around the world have been historically disparaged by European explorers colonial officials and Christian missionaries Nowhere was this more evident than in early descriptions of indigenous religions as savage primitive superstitious and fetishistic Liberal intellectuals both indigenous and colonial reacted to this by claiming that before indigenous peoples ever encountered Europeans they all believed in a Supreme Being The Invention of God in Indigenous Societies argues that by alleging that God can be located at the core of pre Christian cultures this claim effectively invents a tradition which only makes sense theologically if God has never left himself without a witness Examining a range of indigenous religions from North America Africa and Australasia the Shona of Zimbabwe the Rainbow Spirit Theology in Australia the Yupiit of Alaska and the M ori of New Zealand the book argues that the interests of indigenous societies are best served by carefully describing their religious beliefs and practices using historical and phenomenological methods just as would be done in the study of any world religion
