Ornament and Class Gary Huafan He, 2025-03-13 This groundbreaking study examines the intricate relationship between the rise of the nineteenth century bourgeoisie and the emergence of modern architecture exploring this connection through major intellectual and theoretical works while also analyzing their tangible manifestations in buildings and architectural projects Contrary to received narratives that describe the birth of modern architecture as primarily an aesthetic movement Ornament and Class argues that the social and political maturation of the European bourgeoisie as a distinct yet heterogeneous group influenced modern attitudes toward architecture at every level Bringing architecture into conversation with recent histories of the bourgeoisie in the social sciences the book considers how architecture was used as a tool to separate the modern bourgeoisie from the aristocratic and clerical forces above and the working classes below It explores how architects clients planners and administrators grappled with and dealt with ornament architecture and modernity from within the new realities of urban and global capitalism and shows how these realities serve as pedagogical touchstones that remain with us today Historians architecture scholars and students interested in modern architecture aesthetics and European history especially those focusing on the interplay between modern architecture and social development will find this book an invaluable resource

Enchanted Objects Allan Hepburn, 2010-01-01 Enchanted Objects investigates the relationship between visual art and contemporary fiction addressing the problems that arise when paintings deluxe books porcelains or statues are represented in contemporary novels The distinction between objects and art objects depends on aesthetics While some objects are authenticated through museum exhibits others are hidden broken neglected coveted hoarded or salvaged Allan Hepburn asks four broad questions about aesthetics and value What is a detail in visual art Is all art ornamental Does the value of an object increase because it is fragile What defines ugliness Contemporary novels such as Tracy Chevalier's Girl with a Pearl Earring Barry Unsworth's Stone Virgin and Bruce Chatwin's Utz offer implicit answers to these questions while critiquing museums and the determination to invest objects with value through display Addressing current debates in museum studies cultural studies art history and literary criticism Enchanted Objects develops an extensive theory of how contemporary literature engages with and relates to aesthetic objects

Intermedialities Davide Panagia, 2024-07-15 Understanding democracy through film philosophy and political theory Shining new light on our understanding of cinema's ways of political thinking Intermedialities Political Theory and Cinematic Experience puts modern political theory in conversation with the philosophy of film Davide Panagia argues that there are no natural laws of association that can guarantee a template for democratic participation as democracy is predicated not on stabilizing foundations but rather on the formation of expansive collectivities and institutions that are responsive to alterability Instead democracy requires a relational ontology one that he elucidates by turning to philosophers of film like Stanley Cavell Gilles Deleuze Miriam Hansen and Jean Luc Godard all of whom have articulated a political aesthetic of cinematic experience that is at once aspectual and compositional Panagia reads these thinkers alongside a countertradition of modern political thought represented by David Hume Ludwig Wittgenstein and Gilbert Simondon His articulation of cinematic experience thus allows for a political aesthetic that is rooted in the migratory realities of undetermined relations Decoration Emily published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 From Ornament to Object Alina Alexandra Payne, 2012 In the late 19th century a centuries old preference for highly ornamented architecture gave way to a budding Modernism of clean lines and unadorned surfaces At the same moment everyday objects cups saucers chairs and tables began to receive critical attention Alina Payne addresses this shift arguing for a new understanding of the genealogy of architectural modernism rather than the well known story in which an absorption of technology and mass production created a radical aesthetic that broke decisively with the past Payne argues for a more gradual shift as the eloquence of architectural ornamentation was taken on by objects of daily use As she demonstrates the work of Adolf Loos and Le Corbusier should be seen as the culmination of a conversation about ornament dating as far back as the Renaissance Payne looks beyond the usual suspects of philosophy and science to establish theoretical catalysts for the shift from ornament to object in the varied fields of anthropology and ethnology art history and the museum and archaeology and psychology Publisher's description
