Maritime Security The Building Of Confidence

Maritime Security Jozef Goldblat, 1992 Confidence Building at Sea: Advancing Maritime Security in the Mediterranean in a Regional Framework Shlomo Brom, 2022 The Question of the Introduction of Maritime Confidence and Security Building Measures, 1989 Capacity Building for Maritime Security Christian Bueger, Timothy Edmunds, Robert McCabe, 2020-10-09 This book studies recent attempts to restructure maritime security sectors through capacity building. It innovates both theoretically and empirically. It proposes a new framework for understanding maritime capacity building drawing on work in peacebuilding and security sector reform. The framework is then applied across empirical case studies from the Western Indian Ocean WIO region written by scholars from the Global South. The WIO region is a paradigmatic case to study maritime security and capacity building in action. Countries in the region face the full gamut of maritime security challenges while their indigenous capacities to deal with these are often weak. In consequence the region functions as an engine of innovation for maritime capacity building more widely. The lessons and best practices from the region have importance consequences for addressing maritime security across the globe.

Strengthening Maritime Security Through Cooperation I. Chapsos, C. Kitchen, 2015-07-30 Seventy percent of our planet is covered by water and even in today's world of instant communication the global community is still heavily reliant on sea based transport. The maritime domain has always been one of NATO's key strengths but concerns about maritime security have taken on renewed importance in recent years and NATO has been forced to re-examine some of its fundamental assumptions about the post Cold War security environment. This book shares some of the research debates and findings from a NATO Advanced Research Workshop ARW Building Trust to Enhance Maritime Security held in Geneva Switzerland in November 2014. The chapters in the book deal extensively with lessons learned by NATO from a wide range of policies, operations and situations. This maritime experience has been amassed from the Atlantic and Mediterranean to the Baltic and the Black Sea and even into the Indian Ocean as well as from the four decades spent defending NATO allies on the high seas during the Cold War. The single most profound lesson learned over the years has concerned the importance of efficient coordination. Structures and mechanisms have been created not least in recent counter piracy operations which enable a vast array of actors to work together in an efficient way and which could prove invaluable in future efforts to counter terrorism and aggression worldwide. The safety of the maritime domain is essential to the freedom and security of all nations and this book will be of interest to all those whose work involves maintaining that freedom and security.

Maritime Security Capacity Building - Remarks of the Moderator Ronán Long, 2008 Maritime Security Institute for Defence Studies and Analyses, 1993 Maritime Confidence Building in Regions of Tension Jill R. Junnola, 1996 Building the Global Maritime Security Network Jon Dominick Peppetti, 2007 Legal Challenges in Maritime Security John Norton Moore, 2008-08-31 Maritime security is a major challenge for the international community that cuts across a broad spectrum of scholarly disciplines and maritime operation This volume provides in depth analysis of current international and regional approaches to maritime security cargo port and supply chain security maritime information sharing and capacity building The work describes measures in place at multilateral and regional levels to improve information sharing and operational coordination regarding security threats to shipping offshore installations and port facilities Several chapters address measures aimed at reducing acts of piracy and armed robbery against shipping at sea This edited volume contains articles by government officials senior naval and coast guard commanders as well as by leading jurists and academics One unique feature of this volume is that many of the contributions are by operational commanders with first hand experience of the practical law enforcement problems involved in minimizing disruption to legitimate trade and business This collection will appeal to all concerned with maritime security and the protection of vital international trade by sea The CD accompanying the volume includes important documents such as the UN Convention on the Law of the Sea as well many PowerPoint presentations from the thirty first annual Virginia conference held in Heidelberg Germany May 24 26 2007

Confidence-building Measures and Arms Restraint at Sea, 1988 Building Maritime Security Capabilities in Latin America and the Caribbean Through the Excess Defense Articles Program, 2006 Today s global security environment includes a growing number of transnational maritime threats necessitating a cooperative multinational effort This is particularly true in Latin America and the Caribbean where military resource expenditures are among the lowest in the world Many states in the region lack the basic military capabilities to effectively monitor maritime activity within their jurisdictions Commander United States Southern Command is responsible for meeting this unique security challenge yet it is itself very constrained by resources Fortunately within the next decade there is an opportunity to develop the maritime security capabilities of our Latin American partners through the transfer of surplus legacy platforms of the United States Coast Guard through the Excess Defense Articles program Using an operational level analysis this paper examines the potential effectiveness of these assets in furthering United States Southern Command s Theater Objectives

Building Global Partnerships: Cooperative Maritime Security

Operations as the Most Effective Fire of 21st Century Warfare ,2008 Maritime commerce is an essential component of the current globalized economy and defense of the maritime domain is critical for ensuring continued economic prosperity and national security for the world s maritime nations As many states reduce their resource allocation for maritime security capabilities a multi lateral approach to maritime security must be adopted The United States maritime forces Cooperative Strategy for 21st Century Seapower proposes a global maritime security cooperative to do just that United States Joint Doctrine requires Geographic Combatant Commanders to develop a regional security cooperation plan but provides little guidance regarding the principles and procedures that comprise an effective security cooperation strategy Developing the underlying principles that govern cooperative international security partnerships and creating the organizational structure and functional relationships required to manage a regional security partnership are essential elements in establishing an effective global maritime security environment

The National Strategy for Maritime Security Executive Office of the United States,2012-12-11 The safety and economic security of the United States depends upon the secure use of the world s oceans Since the attacks of September 11 2001 the Federal government has reviewed and strengthened all of its strategies to combat the evolving threat in the War on Terrorism Various departments have each carried out maritime security strategies which have provided an effective layer of security since 2001 In December 2004 the President directed the Secretaries of the Department of Defense and Homeland Security to lead the Federal effort to develop a comprehensive National Strategy for Maritime Security to better integrate and synchronize the existing Department level strategies and ensure their effective and efficient implementation Maritime security is best achieved by blending public and private maritime security activities on a global scale into an integrated effort that addresses all maritime threats The new National Strategy for Maritime Security aligns all Federal government maritime security programs and initiatives into a comprehensive and cohesive national effort involving appropriate Federal State local and private sector entities In addition to this Strategy the Departments have developed eight supporting plans to address the specific threats and challenges of the maritime environment While the plans address different aspects of maritime security they are mutually linked and reinforce each other The supporting plans include National Plan to Achieve Domain Awareness Global Maritime Intelligence Integration Plan Interim Maritime Operational Threat Response Plan International Outreach and Coordination Strategy Maritime Infrastructure Recovery Plan Maritime Transportation System Security Plan Maritime Commerce Security Plan Domestic Outreach Plan Development of these plans was guided by the security principles outlined in this National Strategy for Maritime Security These plans will be updated on a periodic basis in response to changes in the maritime threat the world environment and national security policies Together the National Strategy for Maritime Security and its eight supporting plans present a comprehensive national effort to promote global economic stability and protect legitimate activities while preventing hostile or illegal acts within the maritime domain
