Nobodys Child How Older Women Say Goodbye To Their Mothers Paperback:

Nobody's Child Diane Lutovich, 2016-12-05 When Diane Sher Lutovich set out to attain closure of her mother's death she simultaneously discovered how other women address their losses Nobody's Child How Older Women Say Goodbye to Their Mothers in poetry and prose tells the big and little stories of women who having come of age during the feminist revolution lived very different lives than their mothers The author addresses the guilt a daughter feels when confronted by her mother's life choices the loss of family history and a belated recognition of her mother's legacy The voices are heard within these pages giving occasion for the reader to learn about the multiplicity of feelings including remorse fear frustration compassion and deep admiration that many daughters experience at their mother's passing Omega, 2005 American Book Publishing Record, 2003 In the Right Season Diane Lutovich, 2005 Poetry In the opening poem of her last book of poetry Diane Lutovich writes about moving from one house to another in the last poem she writes about how she will soon leave on a new kind of trip the kind each of us must take alone In between she longs for spring in California misses Paris goes swimming in Mexico remembers the past treasures the present prepares to leave behind everything she loves and cherishes the world she exists in every day The poems in this brave book are both rueful and triumphant measured and passionate and shot through with a wild kind of joy in life's plenitude As Jackie Kudler writes in the book's foreword That art can grace its gifted toilers with immortality remains one of life's most reliable miracles For here among these pages we find Diane again laughing complaining considering affirming and always very much alive Health Care & Spirituality Richard B. Gilbert, 2002 Few areas in life have experienced the rapid pace of change that has been the experience of health care It's an area where nothing feels safe and everything is threatened with reexamination and redefinition Accompanying this situation is a new appreciation for the human spirit and the gift of things spiritual including the soul of the work place Addressing this situation is a vital new book Health Care and Spirituality Listening Assessing Caring an anthology of the human predicament the health care professional's story and the health care work place Health Care and Spirituality explores this area that is continually being introduced to new treatments new challenges new people new regulations new expectations and new time limits A View from Life's Edge Corinne G. Dempsey, 2025-10-14 In today's death denying success driven society older women's countercultural voices call for our attention Recounting emotionally charged conversations from across the world A View from Life's Edge reflects on women's comfort with impending death gratitude forged by catastrophe and humility that makes way for wonder Speaking with nearly one hundred women over the age of eighty in four locations northern Iceland south India a retirement community in California and a convent in upstate New York Corinne G Dempsey finds that as we near life's end we gain clarity about what really matters in life Women's stories and reflections in which sorrow and loss are central to a life well lived help to expand our sense of what it means to be human Drawing on the paradoxical wisdom of world religions and mystical traditions to frame late life tendencies across cultures

Dempsey portrays these accounts as a corrective to mainstream values that defeat and diminish us Dempsey encourages us to turn away from ageist fears rather than denying life's inevitable end Learning from older women's perspectives we might move their edge of life views closer to the center
