Jewish Travel in Antiquity Catherine Hezser, 2011 This book provides the first comprehensive study of Jewish travel and mobility in Hellenistic and Roman times based on a critical analysis of Jewish Graeco Roman and early Christian literary epigraphic and archaeological sources and a social historical evaluation of the material Catherine Hezser shows that certain segments of ancient Jewish society were quite mobile Mobility seems to have increased in the later Roman period when an extensive road system facilitated travel within the province of Syria Palestine and the neighbouring Middle Eastern regions Second Temple Judaism was centralized with Jerusalem as its central space and seat of priestly authority In post 70 rabbinic Judaism on the other hand connections between rabbis could be established through mutual visits and second and third degree contacts only Mobility formed the basis of the establishment of a decentralized rabbinic network in Palestine and Babylonia in late antiquity Numerous narrative and halakhic traditions indicate the importance of mobility for communication and the exchange of knowledge amongst rabbis It is argued that the rabbis who were most mobile sat at the nodal points of the rabbinic network and elicited the largest amount of influence They would have combined business travel with scholarly exchange Scholars journeys between Palestine and Babylonia are viewed within the wider context of Rome and Persia s economic and cultural exchange in which Jews just like Christians may have played the role of intermediaries

Radicals on the Road Bernard Schweizer,2001 Schweizer an independent scholar explores the travel writing of George Orwell Evelyn Waugh Graham Greene and Rebecca West The observations made by these westerners of the lands they visited Catalonia Africa Mexico and Yugoslavia provide a range of views perhaps typical for the period Schweizer s reading concentrates on each authors politics and their psychological apprehension of the world around them The psychological theme is explored in the book s second half where Schweizer notes the inherently dualistic construction of national and international politics to be found in the writings as well as the authors anxiety of foreign places and their sense of the uncanny c Book News Inc
