Copyright Office,1978 A Socially Just Classroom: Transdisciplinary Approaches to Teaching Writing Across the Humanities Kristin Coffey,Vuslat Katsanis,2022-08-16 This edited collection provides a range of transdisciplinary approaches to the teaching of writing across the Humanities through the lens of inclusion and equity in higher education In three parts From Disciplinary Practice to Transdisciplinary Application The Collective We Transparent Pedagogy in Praxis Power in Presence From Chalkboard to Pavement the chapters focus on teaching triumphs and challenges specific learning objectives and best practices theories and their applications and concrete examples of campus action within specific institutional or socio historical contexts In whole the book represents what a socially just classroom looks like from first year university writing classes to advanced graduate studies and the impact of learning beyond the university Building on the scholarship of equity in higher education the book forefronts transdisciplinary pedagogies with chapters representing language and literature creative writing cultural and ethnic studies women and gender studies and media studies While we understand social justice as a multifaceted and ever expanding effort we affirm the essential role of classroom instructors as the foundational actors in cultivating and sustaining inclusion and equity We also acknowledge the current challenges of teaching brought on by the COVID 19 pandemic which intensifies previously existing issues surrounding housing employment healthcare and the legal residency status of many students By fostering a conversation around writing pedagogy in a comparative and transdisciplinary context we encourage educators to translate the resources available in their fields in a collective effort to close the equity gaps At the same time we intend for this book to provide a context where younger faculty and diverse students can redefine the college classroom while empowering each other within their chosen institutions

Learning, Teaching and Social Justice in Higher Education Noah Riseman,Sue Rechter,Ellen Warne,2010 This book brings together a wide range of higher education practitioners from across disciplines Their chapters suggest innovative approaches to learning teaching and delivering a tertiary education experience that centres social justice as a core mission of universities The authors address the ways in which universities grapple with the challenges involved in the selection processes administration teaching and learning and student support associated with an increasingly large student population drawn from a broad range of socioeconomic and cultural backgrounds including many students who will be returning to live overseas Some of the specific challenges of these developments have included those of selection academic literacy independent learning student support and student engagement A second dimension is the traditional role of the universities as sources of independent intellectual and ethical critique of social institutions both in terms of research and public intellectual contribution to political and social policy debates and in terms of the formation of students in their capacities as critical ethical citizens and professionals This social ethical critique has traditionally been built into the humanities and the social science disciplines and the helping professions but has now found its way into other disciplines and professional areas such as business and engineering As well broader social policy and political discourse has more explicitly embraced social ethical agendas of inclusiveness and marginalisation of social groups recognition of the damage to the overall society of enduring and increasing social inequality

Chicana/Latina Testimonios as Pedagogical, Methodological, and Activist Approaches to Social Justice Dolores Delgado Bernal, Rebeca Burciaga, Judith Flores Carmona, 2017-10-02 While the genre of testimonio has deep roots in oral cultures and in Latin American human rights struggles the publication and subsequent adoption of This Bridge Called My Back Moraga Anzald a 1983 and more recently Telling to Live Latina Feminist Testimonios Latina Feminist Group 2001 have demonstrated the power of testimonio as a genre that exposes brutality disrupts silencing and builds solidarity among women of colour Within the field of education scholars are increasingly taking up testimonio as a pedagogical methodological and activist approach to social justice which transgresses traditional paradigms in academia Unlike the more usual approach of researchers producing unbiased knowledge the testimonio challenges objectivity by situating the individual in communion with a collective experience marked by marginalization oppression or resistance This approach has resulted in new understandings about how marginalized communities build solidarity and respond to and resist dominant culture laws and policies that perpetuate inequity This book contributes to our understanding of testimonio as it relates to methodology pedagogy research and reflection in pursuit of social justice A common thread among the chapters is a sense of political urgency to address inequities within Chicana o and Latina o communities This book was originally published as a special issue of Equity Excellence in Education

Making Sense of Social Research Methodology Pengfei Zhao, Karen Ross, Peiwei Li, Barbara Dennis, 2021-01-11 Making Sense of Social Research Methodology A Student and Practitioner Centered Approach introduces students to research methods by illuminating the underlying assumptions of social science inquiry Authors Pengfei Zhao Karen Ross Peiwei Li and Barbara Dennis show how research concepts are often an integral part of everyday life through illustrative common scenarios like looking for a recipe or going on a job interview The authors extrapolate from these personal but ubiquitous experiences to further explain concepts like gathering data or social context so students develop a deeper understanding of research and its applications outside of the classroom Students from across the social sciences can take this new understanding into their own research their professional lives and their personal lives with a new sense of relevancy and urgency This text is organized into clusters that center on major topics in social science research The first cluster introduces concepts that are fundamental to all aspects and steps of the research process These concepts include relationality identity ethics epistemology validity and the sociopolitical context within which research occurs The second and third clusters focus on data and inference These clusters engage concretely with steps of the research process including decisions about designing research generating data making inferences Throughout the chapters Pause and Reflect open ended questions provide readers with the space for further inquiry into research concepts and how they apply to life Research Scenario features in each chapter offer new perspectives on major research topics from leading and emerging voices in methods Moving from this dialogic perspective to more actionable advice You and Research features offer students concrete steps for engaging with research Take your research into the world with Making Sense of Social Research Methodology A Student and Practitioner Centered Approach
