Writing Nature in Cold War American Literature Sarah Daw, 2018-08-23 First book length ecocritical study of Cold War American literature Compelling analyses of the function and representation of Nature in a wide range of Cold War fiction and poetry by authors including Paul Bowles J.D. Salinger Jack

Kerouac Allen Ginsberg and Mary McCarthy reveals the prevalence of portrayals of Nature as an infinite interdependent system in American literature written between 1945 and 1971 Daw astutely highlights the Cold War's often overlooked role in environmental history and argues that Rachel Carson's Silent Spring 1962 can be considered as part of a trend of increasingly ecological depictions of Nature in literature written after 1945 By exploring the most recent developments in the field of ecocriticism the book is embedded within current ecocritical debates concerning the Anthropocene and anthropogenic climate change Key Features Contains five case studies of six Cold War writers Paul Bowles Peggy Pond Church J D Salinger Jack Kerouac Allen Ginsberg and Mary McCarthy Offers an in depth exploration of the influences behind each writer's presentation of Nature Shows the Cold War to be a time of seismic change in the human's relationship to the environment and demonstrates the degree to which this inflects Cold War literature Engages with the most recent developments in the field of ecocriticism which drive the study's analytical methodology and embed the book within current ecocritical debates

Cold War Poetry Edward Brunner, 2001 Mainstream American poetry of the 1950s has long been dismissed as deliberately indifferent to its cultural circumstances In this penetrating study Edward Brunner breaks the placid surface of the hollow decade to reveal a poetry sharply responsive to issues of its time Cold War Poetry considers the fifties poem as part of a dual cultural project as proof of the competency of the newly professionalized poet and as a user friendly way of initiating a newly educated upwardly mobile postwar audience into high culture Brunner revisits Richard Wilbur Randall Jarrell and other acknowledged leaders of the period as well as neglected writers such as Rosalie Moore V R Lang Katherine Hoskins Melvin B Tolson and Hyam Plutzik He also examines the one sided authority of the male dominated book review process the ostracizing of female and minority poets poetic fads such as the ubiquitous sestina and the power of the classroom anthology to establish criteria for reading Attributing the gradual change in poetic style during the 1950s to the slow collapse of the authority of the state Brunner shows how a secretive anxious poetics developed in the shadow of a disabled government He recontextualizes the much maligned domestic verse of the 1950s reading its shift toward the private sphere and the recurrent image of the child as a reflection of the powerlessness of the post nuclear citizen Through a close examination of poetry written about the Bomb he delineates how poets registered their growing sense of cosmic disorder in coded language resorting to subterfuge to continue their critique in the face of sanctions levied against those who questioned government policies Brilliantly decoding the politics embedded in the poetry of an ostensibly apolitical time Cold War Poetry provides a powerful rereading of a pivotal decade

The Soldier-Writer, the Expatriate, and Cold War Modernism in Taiwan Li-Chun Hsiao, 2022-08-16 The Soldier Writer the Expatriate and Cold War Modernism in Taiwan Freedom in the Trenches

argues that what appeared to be a genesis of new literature engendered by the modernist movement in postwar Taiwan was made possible only through the splendid isolation within the Cold War world order sustaining the bubble in which Free China lived on borrowed time The book explores the trenches of freedom in whose confines the soldier poets were surrealistically acquiesced to roam free under the aegis of pure literature and the buffer zone created by the US presence in Taiwan and the modernists expatriate writing from America that aided their moderated deviance from the official line It critically examines the anti establishment character and gesture in the movement phase in terms of its entanglements with the state apparatus and the US aided literary establishment Taiwan s modernists counterbalance their retrospectively perceived excess and nuanced forms of exit with a series of spiritual as well as actual returns upon which earlier traditionalist undercurrents would surface This modernism s mixed legacies with its aesthetic avant gardism marrying politically moderate or conservative penchants date back to its bifurcated mode of existence and operation of separating the realm of the aesthetic from everything else in life during the Cold War

Cold War American Literature and the Rise of Youth Culture Denis Jonnes,2014-09-04 Demands placed on many young Americans as a result of the Cold War give rise to an increasingly age segregated society This separation allowed adolescents and young adults to begin to formulate an identity distinct from previous generations and was a significant factor in their widespread rejection of contemporary American society This study traces the emergence of a distinctive post war family dynamic between parent and adolescent or already adult child In depth readings of individual writers such as Arthur Miller William Styron J D Salinger Tennessee Williams Vladimir Nabokov Jack Kerouac Flannery O Connor and Sylvia Plath situate their work in relation to the Cold War and suggest how the figuring of adolescents and young people reflected and contributed to an empowerment of American youth This book is a superb research tool for any student or academic with an interest in youth culture cultural studies American studies cold war studies twentieth century American literature history of the family and age studies

American Literature and Culture in an Age of Cold War Steven Belletto,Daniel Grausam,2012-10-01 The time is right for a critical reassessment of Cold War culture both because its full cultural impact remains unprocessed and because some of the chief paradigms for understanding that culture confuse rather than clarify A collection of the work of some of the best cultural critics writing about the period American Literature and Culture in an Age of Cold War reveals a broad range of ways that American cultural production from the late 1940s to the present might be understood in relation to the Cold War. Critically engaging the reigning paradigms that equate postwar U S culture with containment culture, the authors present suggestive revisionist claims. Their essays draw on a literary archive including the works of John Updike, Joan Didion, Richard E. Kim, Allen Ginsberg, Edwin Denby, Alice Childress, Frank Herbert, and others, strikingly different from the one typically presented in accounts of the period. Likewise, the authors describe phenomena such as the FBI's surveillance of writers, especially African Americans, biopolitics, development theory, struggles over the centralization and decentralization of government, and the cultural work of Reaganism that open up new contexts for discussing postwar culture. Extending the timeline and expanding the geographic scope of Cold War culture, this book reveals both the literature and the culture of the time to be more dynamic and complex than has been generally supposed.

Cold War Literature Andrew Hammond, 2006-11-22 This collection of essays analyzes the literary response to the coups, insurgencies, and invasions that took place around the globe during the Cold War and explores the thematic and stylistic trends in world writing prompted by Cold War hostilities.

Cold War Negritude Christopher T. Bonner, 2023-11-15 Cold War Negritude is the first book-length study of francophone Caribbean literature to foreground the political context of the global Cold War. It focuses on three canonical francophone Caribbean writers: René Depestre, Aimé Césaire, and Jacques Stephen Alexis, whose literary careers and political alignments spanned all three worlds of the 1950s Cold War order. As black Caribbean authors who wrote in French, who participated directly in the global communist movement, and whose engagements with Marxist thought and practice were mediated by their colonial relationship to France, these writers expressed unique insight into this bipolar system as it was taking shape. The book shows how, over the course of the 1950s, French Caribbean Marxist authors re-evaluated the literary aesthetics of Negritude and sought to develop alternatives that would be adequate to the radically changed world system of the Cold War. Through close readings of literary, theoretical, and political texts by Depestre, Césaire, and Alexis, I show that this formal shift reflected a strikingly changed understanding of what it meant to write engaged literature in the new bipolar world order. Debates about literary aesthetics became the proxy battlefield on which Antillean writers promoted and fought for their different visions of an emancipated Caribbean modernity. Consequent to their complicated Cold War alignments, these Antillean authors developed original and unorthodox Marxist literary aesthetics that syncretized an array of socialist literary tendencies from around the globe.

The Palgrave Handbook of Cold War Literature Andrew Hammond, 2020-09-04 This book offers a comprehensive guide to global literary engagement with the Cold War. Eschewing the common focus on national cultures, the collection defines Cold War literature as an international current focused on the military and ideological conflicts of the age and characterised by styles and approaches that transcended national borders. Drawing on specialists from across the world, the volume analyses the period's fiction, poetry, drama, and autobiographical writings in three sections: dominant concerns (socialism, decolonisation, nuclearism, propaganda, censorship, espionage, common genres, postmodernism, socialism, realism, dystopianism, migrant poetry, science fiction testimonial writing and regional cultures Asia Africa Oceania Europe and the Americas In doing so the volume forms a landmark contribution to Cold War literary studies which will appeal to all those working on literature of the 1945-1989 period including specialists in comparative literature postcolonial literature contemporary literature and regional literature
