Questions Of Third Cinema:

Questions of Third Cinema Jim Pines, 1989 Is there an international film language Are national ethnic and cultural differences in how films are made and understood merely differences of dialect Such questions have been increasingly debated in recent years with the emergence of the idea of a Third Cinema which means not simply the films made by the so called Third World countries but any cinema which offers a radical challenge to entrenched Western notions of what the cinema is In a wide ranging series of essays this book extends the debate about Third Cinema in Britain and the United States as well as in Africa and Asia and offers a provocative analysis of the political problems and aesthetic possibilities of a different kind of film making

Questions of Third Cinema Jim Pines, Paul Willemsen, 1994 Essays on Third world cinema

Questions of Third Cinema Jim Pines, 1990-03

Rethinking Third Cinema Wimal Dissanayake, Anthony Guneratne, 2004-06-02 With case studies of the cinemas of India Iran and Hong Kong and with contributors addressing the most challenging questions it poses this important anthology addresses established notions about Third Cinema theory and the cinema practice of developing and postcolonial nations

Third Cinema, World Cinema and Marxism Ewa Mazierska, Lars Kristensen, 2020-09-17 Third Cinema World Cinema and Marxism offers an analysis of Third Cinema and World Cinema from the perspective of Marxism Its starting point is an observation that of all cinematic phenomena none is as intimately related to Marxism as Third Cinema which decries neoliberalism the capitalist system and the Hollywood model of cinema as mere entertainment to make money This is largely to do with the fact that both Marxism and Third Cinema are preoccupied with inequalities resulting from capital accumulation of which colonialism is the most extreme manifestation Third Cinema also defines cinematic modes in terms of representing interest of different classes with First Cinema expressing imperialist capitalist bourgeois ideas Second Cinema the aspirations of the middle stratum the petit bourgeoisie and Third Cinema is a democratic popular cinema

New Latin American Cinema Michael T. Martin, 1997 V 1 Theory practices and transcontinental articulations v 2 Studies of national cinemas Includes bibliographical references and indexes

The Most Typical Avant-Garde David James, 2005-05-30 Los Angeles has nourished a dazzling array of independent cinemas avant garde and art cinema ethnic and industrial films pornography documentaries and many other far flung corners of film culture This glorious panoramic history of film production outside the commercial studio system reconfigures Los Angeles rather than New York as the true center of avant garde cinema in the United States As he brilliantly delineates the cultural perimeter of the film business from the earliest days of cinema to the contemporary scene David James argues that avant garde and minority filmmaking in Los Angeles has in fact been the prototypical attempt to create emancipatory and progressive culture Drawing from urban history and geography local news reporting and a wide range of film criticism James gives astute analyzes of scores of films many of which are to found only in archives He also looks at some of the most innovative moments in Hollywood revealing the full extent of the cross fertilization the occurred between the studio system and films created outside it Throughout he demonstrates that Los Angeles has been in the aesthetic and social vanguard in all cinematic periods from the Socialist cinemas of the early teens and 1930s to the personal cinemas of psychic self investigation in the 1940s to attempts in the 1960s to revitalize the industry with the counterculture's utopian visions and to the 1970s when African Americans Asian Americans Latinos women gays and lesbians worked to create cinemas of their own James takes us up to the 1990s and beyond to explore new forms of art cinema that are now transforming the representation of Southern California's geography

Rethinking Third Cinema Frieda Ekotto, Adeline Koh, 2009 In 1968 Argentinean Filmmakers Fernando Solanas and Octavio Getino first articulated the theory of a Third Cinema a revolutionary genre of cinema that would counter oppression on a global scale Intended to be a guerilla cinema geared at contesting the overwhelming dominance of Western cinema Solana and Getino distinguished Third Cinema from other forms of cinema classifying these other types as First Cinema commercial cinema epitomized by Hollywood and Second Cinema Third Cinema was supposed to be a liberatory tool particularly for the bulk of the world that was subject to European imperialism such as Latin America Africa and Asia Spanning a wide geographical spread of cinemas ranging from Latin America North and Sub Saharan Africa the Caribbean and Asia this book addresses the following questions how can we rethink the concept of Third Cinema for today How do new national cinemas and their accompanying media industries reflect the concerns of societies that are struggling with the implications of accelerated modernization and how are these concerns configured in new genres of aesthetics Is there still a Third Cinema component in contemporary cinemas and if so how can it be understood

African Cinema Kenneth W. Harrow, 1999 This collection of essays deals directly and compellingly with contemporary issues in African cinema In particular they address key aspects of post colonialism and feminism the two major topics of interest in current criticism of African films but coverage is also given to spectatorship national identity ethnography patriarchy and the creation of key film industries in developing countries

The Myth of an Irish Cinema Michael Patrick Gillespie, 2009-01-19 For the past seventy years the discipline of film studies has widely invoked the term national cinema Such a concept suggests a unified identity with distinct cultural narratives As the current debate over the meaning of nation and nationalism has made thoughtful readers question the term its application to the field of film studies has become the subject of recent interrogation In The Myth of an Irish Cinema Michael Patrick Gillespie presents a groundbreaking challenge to the traditional view of filmmaking contesting the existence of an Irish national cinema Given the social economic and cultural complexity of contemporary Irish identity Gillespie argues filmmakers can no longer present Irishness as a monolithic entity The book is arranged thematically with chapters exploring cinematic representation of the middle class urban life rural life religion and politics Offering close readings of Irish themed films Gillespie identifies a variety of interpretative approaches based on the diverse elements that define national character Covering a wide range of films from John Ford's The Quiet Man and Kirk Jones's Waking Ned Devine to Bob Quinn's controversial Budawanny and The

Bishop's Story The Myth of an Irish Cinema signals a paradigm shift in the field of film studies and promises to reinvigorate dialogue on the subject of national cinema

The Oxford Handbook of the Ends of Empire Martin Thomas, Andrew Thompson, 2018-12-06 The Oxford Handbook of the Ends of Empire offers the most comprehensive treatment of the causes course and consequences of the ends of empire in the twentieth century The volume's contributors convey the global reach of decolonization with chapters analysing the empires of Western Europe Eastern Europe China and Japan The Handbook combines broad regional treatments of decolonization with chapter contributions constructed around particular themes or social issues It considers how the history of decolonization is being rethought as a result of the rise of the new imperial history and its emphasis on race gender and culture as well as the more recent growth of interest in histories of globalization transnational history and histories of migration and diaspora humanitarianism and development and human rights The Handbook in other words seeks to identify the processes and commonalities of experience that make decolonization a unique historical phenomenon with a lasting resonance In light of decades of historical and social scientific scholarship on modernization dependency neo colonialism failed state architectures and post colonial conflict the obvious question that begs itself is when did empires actually end In seeking to unravel this most basic dilemma the Handbook explores the relationship between the study of decolonization and the study of globalization It connects histories of the late colonial and post colonial worlds and considers the legacies of empire in European and formerly colonised societies

Global Art Cinema Rosalind Galt, Karl Schoonover, 2010-04-14 Art cinema has for over fifty years defined how audiences and critics imagine film outside Hollywood but surprisingly little scholarly attention has been paid to the concept since the 1970s And yet in the last thirty years art cinema has flourished worldwide The emergence of East Asian and Latin American new waves the reinvigoration of European film the success of Iranian directors and the rise of the film festival have transformed the landscape of world cinema This book brings into focus art cinema's core internationalism demonstrating its centrality to understanding film as a global phenomenon The book reassesses the field of art cinema in light of recent scholarship on world film cultures In addition to analysis of key regions and films the essays cover topics including theories of the film image industrial aesthetic and political histories and art film's intersections with debates on genre sexuality new media forms and postcolonial cultures Global Art Cinema brings together a diverse group of scholars in a timely conversation that reaffirms the category of art cinema as relevant provocative and in fact fundamental to contemporary film studies

An Accented Cinema Hamid Naficy, 2018-06-05 In An Accented Cinema Hamid Naficy offers an engaging overview of an important trend the filmmaking of postcolonial Third World and other displaced individuals living in the West How their personal experiences of exile or diaspora translate into cinema is a key focus of Naficy's work Although the experience of expatriation varies greatly from one person to the next the films themselves exhibit stylistic similarities from their open and closed form aesthetics to their nostalgic and memory driven multilingual narratives and from their emphasis on political agency to their concern with identity and transgression of identity The author explores such features while considering the specific histories of individuals and groups that engender divergent experiences institutions and modes of cultural production and consumption Treating creativity as a social practice he demonstrates that the films are in dialogue not only with the home and host societies but also with audiences many of whom are also situated astride cultures and whose desires and fears the filmmakers wish to express Comparing these films to Hollywood films Naficy calls them accented Their accent results from the displacement of the filmmakers their alternative production modes and their style Accented cinema is an emerging genre one that requires new sets of viewing skills on the part of audiences Its significance continues to grow in terms of output stylistic variety cultural diversity and social impact This book offers the first comprehensive and global coverage of this genre while presenting a framework in which to understand its intricacies

Militant Visions Elizabeth Reich, 2016-08-01 Militant Visions examines how from the 1940s to the 1970s the cinematic figure of the black soldier helped change the ways American moviegoers saw black men for the first time presenting African Americans as vital and integrated members of the nation In the process Elizabeth Reich reveals how the image of the proud and powerful African American serviceman was crafted by an unexpected alliance of government propagandists civil rights activists and black filmmakers Contextualizing the figure in a genealogy of black radicalism and internationalism Reich shows the evolving images of black soldiers to be inherently transnational ones shaped by the displacements of diaspora Third World revolutionary philosophy and a legacy of black artistry and performance Offering a nuanced reading of a figure that was simultaneously conservative and radical Reich considers how the cinematic black soldier lent a human face to ongoing debates about racial integration black internationalism and American militarism Militant Visions thus not only presents a new history of how American cinema represented race but also demonstrates how film images helped to make history shaping the progress of the civil rights movement itself
