Circular Economy Implementation for Sustainability in the Built Environment Cobîrzan, Nicoleta, Muntean, Radu, Felseghi, Raluca-Andreea, 2023-10-03 The construction sector plays an essential role in the global economy using many exhaustible natural resources most of which are renewable in low percentages Moving towards a circular economy is essential because optimizing the consumption of materials and energy contributes to the development of an economic system that is independent more competitive and more resilient in the face of economic and social crises and various environmental factors The current take make and dispose model of the economy is unsustainable so a shift in thinking towards a circular economy is necessary This circular economy is an economic model that minimizes the use of natural resources by selecting them intelligently and minimizing the use of raw materials favoring the use of recyclable materials wherever possible while managing the resources used and maintaining and reusing them in the economic system for as long as possible Circular Economy Implementation for Sustainability in the Built Environment emphasizes the need to implement a circular economy model in the built environment and how to create a system that optimizes the use of resources and construction materials while preserving their properties and values Covering topics such as automobile industries lean manufacturing and operation strategy this premier reference source is an excellent resource for engineers construction managers business leaders urban planners students and educators of higher education researchers and academicians
