Describes the life and accomplishments of Ramses the Great of Egypt The Wisdom of the Ancient Egyptians William MacQuitty, 1978 Annual Egyptological Bibliography , 1978 Publishers Weekly , 1978 A Life to Remember William MacQuitty, 1991 The Historians' History of the World Vol.1 (of 25) (Illustrations) Henry Smith Williams, A complete world history should properly speaking begin with the creation of the world as man's habitat and should trace every step of human progress from the time when man first appeared on the globe Unfortunately the knowledge of today does not permit us to follow this theoretical obligation We now know that the gaps in the history of human evolution as accessible to us today vastly exceed the recorded chapters that in short the period with which history proper has at present to content itself is a mere moment in comparison with the vast reaches of time which in recognition of our ignorance we term prehistoric But this recognition of limitations of our knowledge is a quite recent growth no older indeed than a half century Prior to 1859 the people of Christendom rested secure in the supposition that the chronology of man's history was fully known from the very year of his creation One has but to turn to the first chapter of Genesis to find in the margin the date 4004 B C recorded with all confidence as the year of man's first appearance on the globe One finds there too a brief but comprehensive account of the manner of his appearance as well as of the creation of the earth itself his abiding place Until about half a century ago as has just been said the peoples of our portion of the globe rested secure in the supposition that this record and this date were a part of our definite knowledge of man's history Therefore one finds the writers of general histories of the earlier days of the nineteenth century beginning their accounts with the creation of man B C 4004 and coming on down to date with a full and seemingly secure chronology Our knowledge of the world and of man's history has come on by leaps and bounds since then with the curious result that today no one thinks of making any reference to the exact date of the beginnings of human history unless indeed it be to remark that it probably reaches back some hundreds of thousands of years The historian can speak of dates anterior to 4004 B C to be sure The Egyptologist is disposed to date the building of the Pyramids a full thousand years earlier than that And the Assyriologist is learning to speak of the state of civilisation in Chaldea some 6000 or 7000 years B C with a certain measure of confidence But he no longer thinks of these dates as standing anywhere near the beginning of history He knows that man in that age in the centres of progress had attained a high stage of civilisation and he feels sure that there were some thousands of centuries of earlier time during which man was slowly climbing through savagery and barbarism of which we have only the most fragmentary record He does not pretend to know anything except by inference of the dawns of civilisation Whichever way he turns in the centres of progress such as China Egypt Chaldea India he finds the earliest accessible records covering at best a period of only eight or ten thousand years giving evidence of a civilisation already far advanced Of the exact origin of any one of the civilisations with which he deals he knows absolutely nothing The Creation of Man with its fixed chronology is a chapter that has vanished from our modern histories To be continued in this ebook Through the Name of God Joel T. Klein, 2001 Re-examines the Egyptian impact on the origins of Judaism and sister

religions The Historians' History of the World in Twenty-Five Volumes Various Authors, 2020-09-28 Broadly speaking the historians of all recorded ages seem to have had the same general aims They appear always to seek either to glorify something or somebody or to entertain and instruct their readers The observed variety in historical compositions arises not from difference in general motive but from varying interpretations of the relative status of these objects and from differing judgments as to the manner of thing likely to produce these ends combined of course with varying skill in literary composition and varying degrees of freedom of action As to freedom of selective judgment the earliest historians whose records are known to us exercised practically none at all Their task was to glorify the particular monarch who commanded them to write The records of a Ramses a Sennacherib or a Darius tell only of the successful campaigns in which the opponent is so much as mentioned only in contrast with the prowess of the victor With these earliest historians therefore the ends of historical composition were met in the simplest way by reciting the deeds real or alleged of a king as Ramses Sennacherib or David or of the gods as Osiris or Ishtar or Yahveh As to entertainment and instruction the reader was expected to be overawed by the recital of mighty deeds and to draw the conclusion that it would be well for him to do homage to the glorified monarch human or divine A little later in what may be termed the classical period the historians had attained to a somewhat freer position and wider vision and they sought to glorify heroes who were neither gods nor kings but the representatives of the people in a more popular sense Thus the Iliad dwells upon the achievements of Achilles and Ajax and Hector rather than upon the deeds of Menelaus and Priam the opposing kings Hitherto the deeds of all these heroes would simply have been transferred to the credit of the king Now the individual of lesser rank is to have a hearing Moreover the state itself is now considered apart from its particular ruler The histories of Herodotus of Xenophon of Thucydides of Polybius in effect make for the glorification not of individuals but of peoples This shift from the purely egoistic to the altruistic standpoint marks a long step The writer now has much more clearly in view the idea of entertaining without frightening his reader and he thinks to instruct in matters pertaining to good citizenship and communal morality rather than in deference to kings and gods In so doing the historian marks the progress of civilisation of the Greek and early Roman periods In the medi val time there is a strong reaction To frighten becomes again a method of attacking the consciousness to glorify the gods and heroes a chief aim As was the case in the Egyptian and Persian and Indian periods of degeneration the early monotheism has given way to polytheism Hagiology largely takes the place of secular history A constantly growing company of saints demands attention and veneration To glorify these to show the futility of all human action that does not make for such glorification became again an aim of the historian But this influence is by no means altogether dominant and though there is no such list of historians worthy to be remembered as existed in the classical period yet such names appear as those of Einhard the biographer of Charlemagne De Joinville the panegyrist of Saint Louis Villani Froissart and Monstrelet the chroniclers and Comines Machiavelli and Guicciardini The British Library General Catalogue of Printed Books 1976 to

1982 British Library,1983 Subject Catalog, 1979 Library of Congress,1979 Egyptian Obelisks Henry Honeychurch Gorringe,1885 A deluxe book produced at the point that Harroun and Bierstadt dissolved their business The Artotypes in this book are some of the finest produced by Bierstadt The pictorial record of this engineering feat is remarkable in itself casing and tilting the obelisk loading it into the side of the ship by removing part of the hull pulling it out on a special dock in the Hudson and then moving it by custom made rail from the river to the site next to the Metropolitan Museum The illustrations show the hieroglyphics now mostly lost due to New York s polluted air bright and clear Hanson Collection catalog p 82
