Rangeland Systems David D. Briske, 2017-04-12 This book is open access under a CC BY NC 2 5 license This book provides an unprecedented synthesis of the current status of scientific and management knowledge regarding global rangelands and the major challenges that confront them It has been organized around three major themes The first summarizes the conceptual advances that have occurred in the rangeland profession The second addresses the implications of these conceptual advances to management and policy The third assesses several major challenges confronting global rangelands in the 21st century This book will compliment applied range management textbooks by describing the conceptual foundation on which the rangeland profession is based. It has been written to be accessible to a broad audience including ecosystem managers, educators, students, and policy makers. The content is founded on the collective experience, knowledge, and commitment of 80 authors who have worked in rangelands throughout the world. Their collective contributions indicate that a more comprehensive framework is necessary to address the complex challenges confronting global rangelands. Rangelands represent adaptive social-ecological systems in which societal values, organizations, and capacities are of equal importance to and interact with those of ecological processes. A more comprehensive framework for rangeland systems may enable management agencies and educational research and policy-making organizations to more effectively assess complex problems and develop appropriate solutions.

Developing Strategies For Rangeland Management Mary Koppal, 2021-02-27. In a two-year study, the National Academy of Sciences Committee on Developing Strategies for Rangeland Management examined at length the scientific, political, economic, legal, and social issues arising from the BLM's stewardship role. This book, reporting the findings and recommendations of the NAS committee, contains over eighty professional papers presented at workshops designed to assess forage allocation, inventory of rangeland resources, impact of grazing intensity, and specialized grazing systems on the use and value of rangeland. It also covers manipulative range improvements, application of socioeconomic techniques to range management, decision-making, and political and legal aspects of range management.

Alpine Range Management in the Western United States, Principles, Practices, and Problems John F. Thilenius, Rocky Mountain Forest and Range Experiment Station (Fort Collins, Colo.), 1975.

Management of Agricultural, Forestry, Fisheries and Rural Enterprise - Volume I Robert J. Hudson, 2009-12-10. Management of Agricultural, Forestry, and Fisheries Enterprises is a component of the Encyclopedia of Food and Agricultural Sciences, Engineering, and Technology Resources in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems (EOLSS), which is an integrated compendium of twenty-one encyclopedias. Growing populations and expectations have placed extreme pressure on agricultural, forestry, and fisheries resources. Sustainability of resources and resource industries will be achieved only with commitment, ingenuity, and cooperation at an unprecedented scale. The theme on Management of Agricultural, Forestry, and Fisheries Enterprises begins with an assessment of the organization of agricultural, forestry, fisheries, and rural enterprises, introducing community-based management, traditional small farms, cooperatives, and marketing boards, collective and state enterprises, and integrated global corporate systems. This is followed by thorough assessments of management systems for plants, livestock, forests, and fisheries. Plant management systems are based on genetic resources, water management, nutrient management, and agronomic systems. Livestock production systems are considered from the standpoints of genetic resources, range and pasture-based systems, landless systems, and options for diversification. Trends in the forest industry are revealed in terms of demand for a variety of products from forests, evolving policy regimens, and silvicultural developments. The final topic addresses the complex issues surrounding sustainability of the world's fisheries. This theme assesses the evolving state of the main resource industries, interpreting trends and identifying challenges and opportunities Contributors have attempted to project these developments and raise questions about their impact and role in a changing world Clearly they are part of an unfolding story of adaptation of the resource industries in an increasingly global society These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College Students Educators Professional Practitioners Research Personnel and Policy Analysts Managers and Decision Makers NGOs and GOs Rangeland Health Standards and Guidelines [CA, NV] ,1998 Beginnings of Range Management David A. Perspective In Landscape Ecology R. B. Lal,S.P. Tjallingii,A.A. De Veer,1990-01-01 This book is the proceeding of International congress organized by the Netherlands society for landscape ecology Veldhoven The chapters in this book correspond to the congress themes theoretical concepts rural areas urban rural relations and natural areas One theme is added that of methods and applications Technical Bulletin ,1960 Vegetation science applications for rangeland analysis and management P.T. Tueller,2012-12-06 Natural grasslands pastures and meadows are among the vegetation types most frequently investigated with phytosociological methods This was one of the reasons why volume 13 Application of vegetation science to grassland husbandry and agriculture edited by W Krause appeared as one of the first volumes of this handbook It appeared under the chief editorship of Prof R Tiixen and in his time main emphasis of the handbook was placed on Ziirich Montpellier methods and the European vegetation When we redesigned the handbook we felt the need to include other methods and aims of grassland analyses as well as a more global coverage of grasslands Especially the natural dry and semidry areas of the world needed to be covered was very fortunate in getting Prof Tueller of the University of Reno I Nevada as an editor for this volume He and the colleagues he motivated to compile volume 14 on Application of vegetation science to rangeland analysis and management have created a truly global coverage of the topics interesting for vegetation analyses in natural grasslands Since volume 13 covered the problems of anthropogenically created grasslands this topic was not expressly treated in order to avoid duplication For the same reason no specific attempt was made to get more papers from Europe and the temperate forest region in general The cooperation with Dr Tueller has been very rewarding for me
