Re Analysis In Sentence Processing:

Reanalysis in Sentence Processing J. Fodor, Fernanda Ferreira, 2013-03-14 The topic addressed in this volume lies within the study of sentence processing which is one of the major divisions of psycholinguistics The goal has been to understand the structure and functioning of the mental mechanisms involved in sentence comprehension Most of the experimental and theoretical work during the last twenty or thirty years has focused on first pass parsing the process of assigning structure to a sentence as its words are encountered one at a time from left to right One important guiding idea has been to delineate the processing mechanisms by studying where they fail For this purpose we identify types of sentences which perceivers have trouble assigning structure to An important class of perceptually difficult sentences are those which contain temporary ambiguities Since the parsing mechanism cannot tell what the intended structure is it may make an incorrect guess Then later on in the sentence the structure assignment process breaks down because the later words do not fit with the incorrect structural analysis This is called a garden path situation When it occurs the parsing mechanism must somehow correct itself and find a different analysis which is compatible with the incoming words This reanalysis process is the subject of the research reported here

Japanese Sentence Processing Reiko Mazuka, Noriko Nagai, 2013-05-13 This volume is a direct result of the International Symposium on Japanese Sentence Processing held at Duke University The symposium provided the first opportunity for researchers in three disciplinary areas from both Japan and the United States to participate in a conference where they could discuss issues concerning Japanese syntactic processing The goals of the symposium were three fold to illuminate the mechanisms of Japanese sentence processing from the viewpoints of linguistics psycholinguistics and computer science to synthesize findings about the mechanisms of Japanese sentence processing by researchers in these three fields in Japan and the United States to lay foundations for future interdisciplinary research in Japanese sentence processing as well as international collaborations between researchers in Japan and the United States The chapters in this volume have been written from the points of view of three different disciplines with various immediate objectives from building usable speech understanding systems to investigating the nature of competence grammars for natural languages All of the papers share the long term goal of understanding the nature of human language processing mechanisms The book is concerned with two central issues the universality of language processing mechanisms and the nature of the relation between the components of linguistic knowledge and language processing This volume demonstrates that interdisciplinary research can be fruitful and provides groundwork for further research in Japanese sentence processing

Sentence Processing Roger P. G. van Gompel, 2013-09-11 What are the psychological processes involved in comprehending sentences How do we process the structure of sentences and how do we understand their meaning Do children bilinguals and people with language impairments process sentences in the same way as healthy monolingual adults These are just some of the many questions that sentence processing researchers have tried to answer by conducting ever more sophisticated experiments making this one of the most productive and exciting areas in experimental language research in recent years This book is the first to provide a comprehensive state of the art overview of this important field It contains 10 chapters written by world leading experts which discuss influential theories of sentence processing and important experimental evidence with a focus on recent developments in the area The chapters also analyse research that has investigated how people process the structure and meaning of sentences and how sentences are understood within their context This comprehensive and authoritative work will appeal to students and researchers in the field of sentence processing as well anyone with an interest in psychology and linguistics
