Neihardt, 2025-07-21 This volume is a continuation of the autobiography of John G. Neihardt All Is But a Beginning offering a final glimpse into his fascinating life Covering the years 1901-1908 he weaves a mosaic of personal fulfillment joy and sorrow reflecting on the successes and failures he experienced during his mature years As only he could Neihardt shares a mingling of romantic anecdotes alive with names and faces he sought out or fought for along the way Writing with warmth and sensitivity the late Poet Laureate of Nebraska tells of his early newspaper days his struggle to write poetry his family his encounters with nature his relationships with Indians and the various people who whether met once or often had a profound effect on his life Using a conversational style the author does not present episodes in chronological order Rather he begins to elaborate on one memorable experience then quickly draws out without warning another one that occurred years later tying them into a pattern or coincidence The book's Epilogue is written by Neihardt's daughter Hilda Neihardt Petri Summarizing her father's visions daydreams and philosophy she movingly concludes that with his death on 3 November 1973 Neihardt's great adventure had begun The late John G.
