The Artist at Home Imogen Racz, Jill Journeaux, 2024-01-11 Artists have worked from home for many reasons including care duties financial or political constraints or availability and proximity to others From the home studios of Charles and Ray Eames to the different photographic representations of Robert Rauschenberg's studio this book explores the home as a distinct site of artistic practice and the traditions and developments of the home studio as concept and space throughout the 20th and into the 21st century Using examples from across Europe and the Anglophone world between the mid 20th century and the present each chapter considers the different circumstances for working at home the impact on the creative lives of the artists their identities as artists and on the work itself and how sometimes these were projected and promoted through photographs and the media Key themes include the gendered and performative aspects of women practising at home collaborative studio communities of the 1970s 90s including the appropriation of abandoned spaces in East London and the effects of Covid on artistic practices and family life within the spaces of home The book comprises full length chapters by artists architects art and design historians each of whom bring different perspectives to the issues interwoven with short interviews with artists to enrich and broaden the debates At a time when individual relationships to home environments have been radically altered The Artist at Home considers why some artists in previous decades either needed to or chose to work from home producing work of vitality and integrity Tracing this long tradition into the present the book will provide a deeper understanding of how the home studio has affected the practices and identity of artists working in different countries and in different circumstances from the mid 20th century to the present Writing and Seeing Rui Manuel G. de Carvalho

Homem, Maria de Fátima Lambert, 2006 The essays in this volume are informed by a variety of theoretical assumptions and of critical methodologies but they all share an interest in the intersections of word and image in a variety of media This unifying rationale secures the present collection's central position in the current critical context defined as it predominantly is by ways of reading that are based on a relational nexus The intertextual the intermedial the intersemiotic are indeed foregrounded and combined in these essays conceptually as much as in the critical practices favoured by the various contributions Studies of literature in its relation to pictorial genres enjoy a relative prominence in the volume but the range of media and of approaches considered is broad enough to include photography film video television comic strips animated film public art material culture The backgrounds of contributors are likewise diverse culturally academically linguistically The volume combines contributions by prominent scholars and critics with essays by younger scholars from a variety of backgrounds The resulting plurality of perspective is indeed a source of new insights into the relations between writing and seeing and it contributes to making this collection an exciting new contribution to word and image studies Paula Rego - the Last King of Portugal and Other Stories Adam Foulds, Paula Rego, Marlborough Fine Art (London), Marlborough Fine Art (London) Ltd. Enjoying the Beat of Appearance: An Emotional Symphony within Paula Rego New Work

In a world consumed by displays and the ceaseless chatter of instantaneous connection, the melodic splendor and psychological symphony created by the published term frequently diminish in to the backdrop, eclipsed by the relentless sound and interruptions that permeate our lives. Nevertheless, situated within the pages of Paula Rego New Work a wonderful literary prize brimming with organic feelings, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Constructed by a masterful musician of language, that captivating masterpiece conducts visitors on a psychological journey, skillfully unraveling the hidden tunes and profound affect resonating within each cautiously constructed phrase. Within the depths of the poignant evaluation, we shall examine the book is central harmonies, analyze its enthralling publishing model, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
