Randolph Caldecott Henry Blackburn, 2010-05-20 Published soon after his untimely death this spirited memoir of the artist and illustrator Randolph Caldecott 1846-1886 will appeal as much for its value as a portrait composed by a close acquaintance as for the many drawings it contains Written by Henry Blackburn the editor of the London Society an illustrated magazine of light and amusing literature to which Caldecott contributed a number of drawings it uses a style similar to that of Caldecott himself who often peppered his papers personal letters to family and friends and even official documents with small sketches These would take as their subject some humorous remark or simply illustrate the content of the text Beyond illustration in which he was highly successful Caldecott had a varied career as a sculptor and oil painter exhibiting at the Royal Academy and as a watercolourist being elected to the Royal Institute of Watercolour Painting in 1872

sense of humour was overflowing his hand was comparatively untrained that with his keen eye for the grotesque he turned his back upon much that was beautiful about him that his sense of the fitness of things of the requirements of composition and the like were in embryo so to speak About Henry Blackburn the Author Caldecott s output however ranged wider than this he illustrated novels and accounts of foreign travel made humorous drawings depicting hunting and fashionable life drew cartoons and he made sketches of the Houses of Parliament inside and out and exhibited sculptures and paintings in oil and watercolour in the Royal Academy and galleries In the year that he left school 1861 he first had a drawing published it was a sketch of a disastrous fire at the Queens Railway Hotel in Chester and it appeared in the Illustrated London News together with his account of the blaze
