Hannah Ewence, Tim Grady

Rape Of Belgium:

The Rape of Belgium Larry Zuckerman, 2004-02 The author presents a compelling and untold story of Germany's occupation of Belgium after WW1. It is a great trade history book from a wonderful storyteller. The Great War in Belgium and the Netherlands Felicity Rash, Christophe Declercq, 2018-07-02 This book addresses the many avenues that are still left unexplored when it comes to our understanding of the First World War in the Low Countries. With the ongoing centenary of the Great War, many events have been organized in the United Kingdom to commemorate its military events, its socio-political consequences, and its cultural legacy. Of these events, very few have paid attention to the fates of Belgium or the Netherlands, even though it was the invasion of Belgium in August 1914 that was the catalyst for Great Britain declaring war. The occupation of Belgium had long-term consequences for its people, but much of the military and social history of the Western Front concentrates on northern France, and the Netherlands is largely forgotten as a nation affected by the First World War. By opening the field beyond the military and beyond the front, this collection explores the interdisciplinary and international nature of the Great War. A Nun, a Convent, and the German Occupation of Belgium Rene Kollar, 2016-12-15 World War I has been recorded from many points of view: correspondent, poet, politician, and soldier. Comments from a nun living in a foreign country during the hostilities, however, can provide new insights. Isoline Jones was born in 1876 in England and attended the boarding school at Tildonk, Belgium, run by the Ursuline sisters. She eventually converted to Roman Catholicism from Anglicanism and made her perpetual vows in 1907 as a member of the Ursuline community. Her religious name was Mother Marie Georgine. In August 1914, German forces invaded Belgium and occupied the convent and school, and her impressions of the war years are preserved in a series of letters written in the form of a diary. The siege of Antwerp, the plight of refugees, interaction with the German soldiers, and the hectic daily life of the convent were recorded by Mother Marie Georgine. Events occurring throughout Belgium did not escape her attention, and she did not avoid describing the brutality of war. Although sections of her diary have appeared in print, this is the first publication of Mother Marie Georgine's entire diary. Her impressions of World War I offer new perspectives on this tragic event. The Rape of Belgium and the "Plan" that Failed Th. Barclay, 1915 Anthropology and Race in Belgium and the Congo (1839-1922) Maarten Couttenier, 2023-11-03 This book examines the history of Belgian physical anthropology in the long nineteenth century and discusses how the notion of race structured Belgian pasts and presents, as well as relations between metropole and empire. In a context of competing European nationalisms, Belgian anthropologists mainly used physical characters like skull form and the color of hair and eyes to delimitate races, which were believed to be permanent and existent. Their belief in a supposed racial superiority was, however, above all, telling about their own origins and physical characters. Although it is often assumed that these ideas were subsequently transferred to the colony, the case of Belgian colonization in Congo shows that colonial administrators, at least in theory, were reluctant to use the idea of permanent races because they needed the possibility of evolution to legitimize their actions as part of a civilizing mission In reality however colonization was based on military occupation and economic exploitation with devastating effects This book analyzes how in this violent context widespread racial prejudices in fact dehumanized Congolese This not only allowed colonizers to act inhuman but also reduced Congolese or their body parts to objects that could be measured photographed casted and collected This volume will be of use to students and scholars alike interested in social and cultural history as well as imperial and colonial history

Postcards from the Trenches Allyson Booth, 1996 She links for example the modernist representation of an unstable self to soldiers familiarity with corpses the modernist mistrust for fact to the competing nationalist discourses of August 1914 and the modernist description of buildings as having shaken off the past to a desire to forget the war Booth argues that the dislocations of war often figure centrally in modernist forms even when the war itself seems peripheral to modernist content

Military Workfare Deborah Cowen, 2008-04-19 Despite the centrality of war in social and political thought the military remains marginal in academic and public conceptions of citizenship and the soldier seems to be thought of as a peripheral or even exceptional player Military Workfare draws on five decades of restricted archival material and critical theories on war and politics to examine how a military model of work discipline domestic space and the social self has redefined citizenship in the wake of the Second World War It is also a study of the complex often concealed ways in which organized violence continues to shape national belonging What does the military have to do with welfare Could war work be at the centre of social rights in both historic and contemporary contexts Deborah Cowen undertakes such important questions with the citizenship of the soldier front and centre in the debate Connecting global geopolitics to intimate struggles over entitlement and identity at home she challenges our assumptions about the national geographies of citizenship proposing that the soldier has in fact long been the model citizen of the social state Paying particular attention to the rise of neoliberalism and the emergence of civilian workfare Military Workfare looks to the institution of the military to unsettle established ideas about the past and raise new questions about our collective future

Belgium's Dilemma Jonathan A. Epstein, 2014-03-27 In Belgium's Dilemma The Formation of Belgian Defense Policy 1932-1940 Jonathan Andrew Epstein presents for the first time in English a detailed examination of the formation of Belgian defense policy in the eight years leading up to the crucial World War II Blitzkrieg campaign in Western Europe Belgium's decision to renounce military ties with France in 1936 has been widely criticized as a fatal mistake but it was in fact a reasonable response to Belgium's situation and was not a significant factor in the Allied defeat Drawing on Belgian documents Jonathan Andrew Epstein looks at the leaders and issues that shaped the Belgian army of 1940 and demonstrates that while mistakes were made most of the decisions were sound

World War I, Mass Death, and the Birth of the Modern US Soldier David W. Seitz, 2018-06-20 World War I Mass Death and the Birth of the Modern US Soldier A Rhetorical History examines the United States government's postwar ideological and rhetorical project in establishing permanent national military cemeteries abroad Constructed throughout Europe where citizen soldiers had fought and perished and sacralized as American sites these burial grounds simultaneously linked the nation's war dead back to American soil and the national purpose rooted there expressed the nation's emerging prominent role on the world's stage and advanced the burgeoning icon of the sacrificial universal US soldier. It draws upon untapped archival and historical materials from the WWI and interwar periods as well as original on-site research to show how the cemeteries came to display and advance the vision of the modern US soldier as a global force for good. Ultimately within the visual display of overseas cemeteries we can detect the birth of the modern US soldier, a potent icon in which divergent emotions, memories, beliefs, and arguments of Americans and non-Americans have been expressed for a century.

Rehearsals Jeff Lipkes, 2007. People screamed, cried and groaned. Above the tumult I could distinguish the voices of small children. All this time the soldiers were singing. Sometime after the first salvo there was another round of fire and once again I was not hit. After this I heard fewer cries, save from time to time a small child calling its mother. Felix Bourdon, survivor of a mass execution in Dinant, Belgium. In August 1914 without any legitimate pretext German soldiers killed nearly 6,000 Belgian noncombatants including women and children and burned some 25,000 homes and other buildings. Rehearsals is the first book to provide a detailed narrative history of the German invasion of Belgium as it affected civilians. Based on extensive eyewitness testimony, the book chronicles events in and around the towns of Liège, Aarschot, Andenne, Tamines, Dinant, and Leuven where the worst of the German depredations occurred. Accounts of the killing, looting, and arson have long been dismissed as atrocity propaganda, particularly in the United Kingdom and the United States. Rehearsals examines the campaign by revisionists that led to voluminous and compelling testimony about German war crimes being discredited. Recently the case has been made that the violence that came to a peak between August 19 and August 26, 1914 was the result of a spontaneous outbreak of German paranoia about civilian sharpshooters. In Rehearsals Jeff Lipkes offers compelling evidence that the executions were in fact part of a deliberate campaign of terrorism ordered by military authorities. In his shocking account of events that have been largely overlooked by historians of World War I, Lipkes commemorates the heroism as well as the suffering of the Belgian victims of German aggression. Ireland and the Great War Adrian

Gregory, Senia Paseta, 2002-11-23. This volume brings together new research whilst re-evaluating older assumptions about the immediate and continuing impact of World War I on Ireland. It explores some lesser-known aspects of Ireland's war years as well as including studies of more traditional areas. Individual articles cover military, social, cultural, political, and economic aspects of the Great War as well as reflecting on continuity and change within Irish historiography. In doing so, they analyze how the experience and memory of the War have contributed to identity formation and the legitimization of political violence.
