the Making of a Modern Literary Culture: Bengal at the Turn of the Twentieth Century Samarпита Mitra, 2020-06-15

In Periodicals Readers and the Making of a Modern Literary Culture Bengal at the Turn of the Twentieth Century Samarпита Mitra studies literary periodicals as a particular print form and reveals how their production and circulation were critical to the formation of a Bengali public sphere during the turn of the twentieth century Given its polyphonic nature capacity for sustaining debates and adaptability by readers with diverse reading competencies periodicals became the preferred means for dispensing modern education and entertainment through the vernacular The book interrogates some of the defining debates that shaped readers perspectives on critical social issues and explains how literary culture was envisioned as an indicator of the emergent nation Finally it looks at the Bengali Muslim and women s periodicals and their readerships and argues that the presence of multiple literary voices make it impossible to speak of Bengali literary culture in any singular terms

It has become a critical commonplace that postmodernism no longer serves as an adequate designation for contemporary literature But what comes after postmodernism What are the tendencies and directions within contemporary American literature that promise to shape its future The contributions to this book are written in the shadows of new media a turn towards the nonhuman in critical thinking and a surge in environmental and apocalyptic thought Engaging with such contemporary debates the authors map the rapidly changing ecosystem of contemporary literary genres and forms and attend to transformations in the production reception and circulation of books This book takes for granted that American literature does have a future although whatever this future holds it is unlikely to be what we expect At this historical juncture the American novel seems to carve its future through an engagement with issues at the forefront of our present thereby ensuring its own ongoing contemporaneity This book was originally published as a special issue of Studia Neophilologica

Victorian Transformations Dr Bianca Tredennick, 2013-05-28 Proposing the concept of transformation as a key to understanding the Victorian period this collection explores the protean ways in which the nineteenth century conceived of and responded to and created change The volume focuses on literature particularly issues related to genre nationalism and desire For example the essays suggest that changes in the novel's form correspond with shifting notions of human nature in Victor Hugo's Notre Dame de Paris technical forms such as the villanelle and chant royal are crucial bridges between Victorian and Modernist poetics Victorian theater moves from privileging the text to valuing the spectacles that characterized much of Victorian staging Carlyle's Past and Present is a rallying cry for replacing the static and fractured language of the past with a national language deep in shared meaning Dante Gabriel Rossetti posits unachieved desire as the means of rescuing the subject from the institutional forces that threaten to close down and subsume him and the return of Adelaide Anne Procter's fallen nun to the convent in A Legend of Provence can be read as signaling a more modern definition of gender and sexuality that allows for the possibility of transgressive desire within society The collection concludes with an essay that shows neo-Victorian authors like John Fowles and A S Byatt contending with the Victorian preoccupations with gender and sexuality
