Re Drawing Boundaries Work Households And Gend Studies On China:

Re-Drawing Boundaries Barbara Entwisle, Gail Henderson, 2000-11-07 The essays in this volume explore various aspects of work in China including the nature of work gender inequalities in work gender and work in the context of migration and the reciprocal influences of households and work organization , Gender, Modernity and Male Migrant Workers in China Xiaodong Lin, 2013-07-18 Rural urban migration within China has transformed and reshaped rural people's lives during the past few decades and has been one of the most visible phenomena of the economic reforms enacted since the late 1970s Whilst Feminist scholars have addressed rural women's experience of struggle and empowerment in urban China in contrast research on rural men's experience of migration is a neglected area of study In response this book seeks to address the absence of male migrant workers as a gendered category within the current literature on rural urban migration Examining Chinese male migrant workers identity formation this book explores their experience of rural urban migration and their status as an emerging sector of a dislocated urban working class It seeks to understand issues of gender and class through the rural migrant men's narratives within the context of China's modernization and provides an in depth analysis of how these men make sense of their new lives in the rapidly modernizing post Mao China with its emphasis on progress and development Further this book uses the men's own narratives to challenge the elite assumption that rural men's low status is a result of their failure to adopt a modern urban identity and lifestyle Drawing on interviews with 28 male rural migrants Xiaodong Lin unpacks the gender politics of Chinese men and masculinities and in turn contributes to a greater understanding of global masculinities in an international context This book will be of great interest to students and scholars working in the fields of Chinese culture and society gender studies migration studies sociology and social anthropology Shortlisted for this year's BSA Philip Abrams Memorial Prize Chinese Women - Living and Working Anne McLaren, 2005-08-05 Experts in gender politics media studies and anthropology discuss the impact of economic reform and globalization on Chinese women in family businesses management the professions the prostitution industry and domestic service Transforming the Gendered Organisation of Labour and Leisure Yuqin Huang, 2020-08-28 This book explores how the labour and leisure lives of people in contemporary rural China have been structured and transformed discussing the changing dynamics of power relations both between and within genders and in local village and family household and remote the state and market contexts It combines perspectives from sociology gender studies social history and demography to investigate the changes and continuities in the lives of women and men in Lianhe a rural village in central China examining the period from 1926 to 2013 through the lens of labour and leisure Employing methods from the field of ethnography the research focuses on the life stories of three generations including 57 women in Lianhe The book develops a double comparison analytical framework to compare the organisation of labour and leisure in the three respective generations proceeding on the one hand diachronically along the historical time that is the pre collective era collective era and reform era and synchronically along the women's life stages on the other. In so doing the book links women's shifting role in changing family household forms with broader socio-economic, political, demographic and cultural changes. Moreover, it employs a holistic perspective to reflect changing patterns in women's labour and leisure by disrupting the remunerated/unremunerated home labour within/outside household and labour/leisure dichotomies and exploring the interrelations between them. Based on this, the book then identifies the determinants of rural women's labour and leisure and reveals the women's experiences of their changing identities, particularly concerning their relationships with their parents-in-law, sisters-in-law, husbands and children. Particularly highlighting the interdependence and inequality among women, it also reveals their own perception of their identities and relationships and their understanding of husband-wife fairness and gender equality. Lastly, it demonstrates that the prevalent androcentrism in the remote world does not match the increasing husband-wife fairness in the local world and argues that this mismatch has caused the complex and paradoxical experiences and subjectivities of these women. Given its scope, the book is of interest to scholars, students and researchers in the fields of sociology, anthropology, gender and development as well as a general audience looking to explore contemporary rural China.

Gender and Employment in Rural China Jing Song, 2017-04-21. With China's rapid advancements in urbanization and industrialization, there has been significant labor movement away from agriculture in the rural regions. Using four village case studies, Song examines how this restructuring process affects the rural population. Much of her research is centered on their various perceptions and reactions towards the market reforms. How are their lives reshaped through the employment transition? Along with the changes of family life and the diversification of development models, how do an individual's gender and background play a role in determining employment? These are the broad questions that Song addresses through detailed analysis of four different villages in light of China's move towards decentralization of its rural economy. Women and Gender in Twentieth-Century China Paul J. Bailey, 2012-08-29. Paul J. Gender and Agrarian Reforms Susie Jacobs, 2013-05-13. The redistribution of land has profound implications for women and for gender relations; however, gender issues have been marginalised from both theoretical and policy discussions of agrarian reform. This book presents an overview of gender and agrarian reform experiences globally. Jacobs highlights case studies from Latin America, Asia, Africa and eastern Europe and also compares agrarian and land reforms organised along collective lines as well as along individual household lines. Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of Government and International Relations at Sydney University Australia China and the WTO Deepak Bhattasali, Shantong Li, William J. Martin, 2004-07-09 China's accession to the WTO requires a great many specific policy reforms. However, if the best results are to be obtained, it is important that these reforms be implemented as part of a consistent development program rather than simply by treating them as a recipe. To do this, policy makers must understand the range and nature of the policy changes required by accession, their implications for the economy and the availability and effects of supporting policies. China and the WTO analyzes the nature of the reforms involved in China's accession to the WTO, assesses their implications for the world economy, and examines the implications for individual households, particularly the poor. Its key objective is to provide the information that will allow policy makers to implement WTO commitments and formulate supporting policies to contribute strongly to economic development and poverty reduction. Individual chapters by leading scholars analyze the nature of the reforms in key areas such as agriculture, services, intellectual property, and safeguards and anti-dumping. These chapters form the building blocks for later chapters which analyze the implications of reform for the economy. The book also includes a series of studies that assess the implications for households, taking into account the social safety net policies applying in China, and the impacts of complementary policies in areas such as labor market reform and investments in human capital. Of interest to policymakers, academics, and students studying international trade issues, and to practitioners in the area of trade and development, China and the WTO is a valuable addition to the wealth of information provided by the World Bank Trade and Development Series.
