Lennon,1974 This is one of a series of reports on the Trailblazer II program The particular aspect treated here involves the unmodified expansion region plasma and its effect on an antenna located on the vehicle shoulder This report describes some of the theoretical approaches used discusses the levels of approximation involved and shows the agreement between these various methods and the test data The failure of a single set of assumptions to yield consistent agreement over a range of altitudes confirms the need to adopt flow models appropriate to the changing regimes encountered during reentry One significant conclusion is that performance characteristics such as reflection and interantenna coupling which depend mostly on the level of peak electron density can be represented by simple plane wave as well as by the more sophisticated slot antenna models The latter approach however is necessary to describe propagation across the entire plasma sheath Digest of the Laws of Virginia, of a Civil Nature and of a Permanent Character and General Operation: Illustrated by Judicial Decisions.
