Mourners Song War And Remembrance From The Iliad To Vietnam:

The Mourner's Song James Tatum, 2003 The Mourner's Song James Tatum, 2018-10-30 No matter when or where they are fought all wars have one thing in common a relentless progression to monuments and memorials for the dead Likewise all art made from war begins and ends in mourning and remembrance In The Mourner's Song James Tatum offers incisive discussions of physical and literary memorials constructed in the wake of war from the Vietnam Veterans Memorial to the writings of Stephen Crane Edmund Wilson Tim O'Brien and Robert Lowell Tatum's touchstone throughout is the Iliad not just one of the earliest war poems but also one of the most powerful examples of the way poetry can be a tribute to and consolation for what is lost in war Reading the Iliad alongside later works inspired by war Tatum reveals how the forms and processes of art convert mourning to memorial He examines the role of remembrance and the distance from war it requires the significance of landscape in memorialization the artifacts of war that fire the imagination the intimate relationship between war and love and its effects on the ferocity with which soldiers wage battle and finally the idea of memorialization itself Because all survivors suffer the losses of war Tatum's is a story of both victims and victors commanders and soldiers women and men Photographs of war memorials in Vietnam France and the United States beautifully augment his testimonials Eloquent and deeply moving The Mourner's Song will speak to anyone interested in the literature of war and the relevance of the classics to our most pressing contemporary needs Death, Grief and Poverty in Britain, 1870-1914 Julie-Marie Strange, 2005-07-25 With high mortality rates it has been assumed that the poor in Victorian and Edwardian Britain did not mourn their dead Contesting this approach Julie Marie Strange studies the expression of grief among the working class demonstrating that poverty increased rather than deadened it She illustrates the mourning practices of the working classes through chapters addressing care of the corpse the funeral the cemetery commemoration and high infant mortality rates The book draws on a broad range of sources to analyse the feelings and behaviours of the labouring poor using not only personal testimony but also fiction journalism and official reports It concludes that poor people did not only use spoken or written words to express their grief but also complex symbols actions and significantly silence This book will be an invaluable contribution to an important and neglected area of social and cultural history American Mourning Simon Stow, 2017-07-25 This insightful study employs public mourning as a lens to identify and address the shortcomings of American democracy Allies in Memory Sam Edwards, 2015-03-02 Amidst the ruins of postwar Europe and just as the Cold War dawned many new memorials were dedicated to those Americans who had fought and fallen for freedom Some of these monuments plaques stained glass windows and other commemorative signposts were established by agents of the US government partly in the service of transatlantic diplomacy some were built by American veterans groups mourning lost comrades and some were provided by grateful and grieving European communities As the war receded Europe also became the site for other forms of American commemoration from the sombre and solemn battlefield pilgrimages of veterans to the political theatre of Presidents to the production and consumption of commemorative souvenirs With a specific focus on processes and practices in two distinct regions of Europe Normandy and East Anglia Sam Edwards tells a story of postwar Euro American cultural contact and of the acts of transatlantic commemoration that this bequeathed Aftermath Dr Nicholas Martin, Dr Tim Haughton, Dr Pierre Purseigle, 2014-12-28 Focusing on three of the defining moments of the twentieth century the end of the two World Wars and the collapse of the Iron Curtain this volume presents a rich interdisciplinary collection of authoritative essays covering a wide range of thematic regional and methodological perspectives By re examining these traumatic years it illuminates ideas concerning mythologisation mobilisation commemoration confrontation and representation in the aftermath of conflict The relationship between the living and the dead the contestation of memories and legacies of war in cultural and political discourses and the significance of generations are all key threads binding the collection together Aftermath Tim Haughton, 2016-03-23 Focusing on three of the defining moments of the twentieth century the end of the two World Wars and the collapse of the Iron Curtain this volume presents a rich collection of authoritative essays covering a wide range of thematic regional temporal and methodological perspectives By re examining the traumatic legacies of the century s three major conflicts the volume illuminates a number of recurrent yet differentiated ideas concerning memorialisation mythologisation mobilisation commemoration and confrontation reconstruction and representation in the aftermath of conflict The post conflict relationship between the living and the dead the contestation of memories and legacies of war in cultural and political discourses and the significance of generations are key threads binding the collection together While not claiming to be the definitive study of so vast a subject the collection nevertheless presents a series of enlightening historical and cultural perspectives from leading scholars in the field and it pushes back the boundaries of the burgeoning field of the study of legacies and memories of war Bringing together historians literary scholars political scientists and cultural studies experts to discuss the legacies and memories of war in Europe 1918 1945 1989 the collection makes an important contribution to the ongoing interdisciplinary conversation regarding the interwoven legacies of twentieth century Europe s three major conflicts A Special Model of Classical Reception Maria de Fátima Silva, David Bouvier, Maria das Graças Augusto, 2020-09-03 The contributions to this volume cover a large diachronic geographical and cultural space Some of the texts go back to antiquity using the Odyssey as the most significant source for several reflections both ancient and contemporary and therefore the safest link between old and contemporary versions In addition in the modern and contemporary summaries and tales analysed here predominance is given to epics Homer and other famous stories known from the epic cycle as a source exemplified by texts belonging to various literary works from across the globe focused on the influence that major political phenomena can have on universal creativity Modernism and Mourning Patricia Rae, 2007 The essays in Modernism and Mourning examine the work of mourning in modernist literature or more precisely its propensity for resisting this work Drawing from recent developments in the theory and cultural history of mourning its contributors explore the various ways in which modernist writers repudiate Freud's famous injunction to mourners to work through their grief endorsing instead a resistant or melancholic mourning that shapes both their themes and their radical experiments with form. The emerging picture of the pervasive influence of melancholic mourning in modernist literature casts new light on longstanding critical arguments especially those about the politics of modernism. It also makes clear the pertinence of this literature to the present day in which the catastrophic losses of 9/11, of retaliatory war, of racially motivated genocide, of the AIDS epidemic have made the work of mourning a subject of widespread interest and debate.

Patricia Rae is Head of the Department of English at Queen's University. Bringing War to Book Rachel Woodward, K. Neil Jenkins, 2018-05-04. This book explores how military memoirs come to be written and published. Looking at the journeys through which soldiers and other military personnel become writers, the authors draw on over 250 military memoirs published since 1980 about service with the British armed forces and on interviews with published military memoirists who talk in detail about the writing and production of their books. A range of themes are explored including the nature of the military memoir, motivations for writing, authors' reflections on their readerships, inclusions and exclusions within the text, the memories and materials that authors draw on, the collaborations that make the production and publication of military memoirs possible, and the issues around the design of military memoirs' distinctive covers. Written by two leading commentators on the sociology of the military, Bringing War to Book offers a new and original argument about the representations of war and the military experience as a process of social production. The book will be of interest to students and scholars across a range of disciplines including sociology, history, and cultural studies.

Specters of War Ignacio Sarmiento, 2025-03-11. Specters of War explores mourning practices in postwar Central America, particularly in El Salvador and Guatemala. Ignacio Sarmiento delves into the intricate dynamics of grieving through an interdisciplinary lens, analyzing expressions of mourning in literature, theater, and sites of memory. At the heart of this analysis is the contention over who has the right to mourn, how mourning is performed, and who is included in this process. Sarmiento reveals mourning not as a private affair but as a battleground where different societal factions vie for the possibility of grieving the dead. Through meticulous research and theoretical nuance, Specters of War sheds light on the politics of mourning in postconflict societies. Sarmiento argues that mourning is not merely a personal experience but a deeply political act intertwined with power struggles and societal divisions. From victims of state terrorism to military elites, various groups engage in a complex dance of grief, revealing the fraught nature of public mourning in postwar Central America. By examining cultural artifacts and memorialization projects, Sarmiento uncovers the multifaceted nature of mourning and its implications for memory, justice, and reconciliation. This groundbreaking work is essential reading for scholars, students, and professionals interested in Central American history and culture, as well as post-authoritarian societies. Specters of War promises to deepen our understanding of postwar Central America and the legacy of loss in shaping collective identities and narratives of the past.

The Future of Trauma Theory Gert Buelens, Samuel Durrant, Robert Eaglestone, 2013-10-30 This collection analyses the future of trauma theory a major theoretical discourse in contemporary criticism and theory The chapters advance the current state of the field by exploring new areas asking new questions and making new connections Part one History and Culture begins by developing trauma theory in its more familiar post deconstructive mode and explores how these insights might still be productive It goes on via a critique of existing positions to relocate trauma theory in a postcolonial and globalized world theoretically aesthetically and materially and focuses on non Western accounts and understandings of trauma memory and suffering Part two Politics and Subjectivity turns explicitly to politics and subjectivity focussing on the state and the various forms of subjection to which it gives rise and on human rights biopolitics and community Each chapter in different ways advocates a movement beyond the sort of texts and concepts that are the usual focus for trauma criticism and moves this dynamic network of ideas forward With contributions from an international selection of leading critics and thinkers from the US and Europe this volume will be a key critical intervention in one of the most important areas in contemporary literary criticism and theory

The Politics of Haunting and Memory in International Relations Jessica Auchter, 2014-03-21 International Relations has traditionally focused on conflict and war but the effects of violence including dead bodies and memorialization practices have largely been considered beyond the purview of the field Drawing on Jacques Derrida's notion of hauntology to consider the politics of life and death Auchter traces the story of how life and death and a clear division between the two is summoned in the project of statecraft She argues that by letting ourselves be haunted or looking for ghosts it is possible to trace how statecraft relies on the construction of such a dichotomy Three empirical cases offer fertile ground for complicating the picture often painted of memorialization Rwandan genocide memorials the underexplored case of undocumented immigrants who die crossing the US Mexico border and the body ruins nexus in 9 11 memorialization Focusing on the role of dead bodies and the construction of particular spaces as the appropriate sites for memory to be situated it offers an alternative take on the new materialisms movement in international relations by asking after the questions that arise from an ethnographic approach to the subject viewing things from the perspective of dead bodies who occupy the shadowy world of post conflict international politics This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of critical international relations security studies statecraft and memory studies

The Penitent State Paul Muldoon, 2023-09-15 This book asks a deceptively simple question what are states actually doing when they do penance for past injustices Why are these penitential gestures especially the gesture of apology becoming so ubiquitous and what implications do they carry for the way power is exercised Drawing on the work of Schmitt Foucault and Agamben the book argues that there is more at stake in sovereign acts of repentance and redress than either the recognition of the victims or the legitimacy of the state Driven it suggests by an interest in healing such acts testify to a new biopolitical raison d'état in which the management of trauma emerges as a critical expression of attempts to regulate the life of the population The

Penitent State seeks to show that the key issue created by the age of apology is not whether sovereign acts of repentance and redress are sincere or insincere but whether the political measures licensed in the name of healing deserve to be regarded as either restorative or just

Death, Disability, and the Superhero José Alaniz, 2014-10-15 The Thing Daredevil Captain Marvel The Human Fly Drawing on DC and Marvel comics from the 1950s to the 1990s and marshaling insights from three burgeoning fields of inquiry in the humanities disability studies death and dying studies and comics studies Jos Alaniz seeks to redefine the contemporary understanding of the superhero Beginning in the Silver Age the genre increasingly challenged and complicated its hypermasculine quasi eugenicist biases through such disabled figures as Ben Grimm The Thing Matt Murdock Daredevil and the Doom Patrol Alaniz traces how the superhero became increasingly vulnerable ill and mortal in this era He then proceeds to a reinterpretation of characters and series some familiar Superman some obscure She Thing These genre changes reflected a wider awareness of related body issues in the postwar U S as represented by hospice death with dignity and disability rights movements The persistent highlighting of the body's imperfection comes to forge a predominant aspect of the superheroic self Such moves originally part of the Silver Age strategy to stimulate sympathy enhance psychological depth and raise the dramatic stakes developed further in such later series as The Human Fly Strikeforce Morituri and the landmark graphic novel The Death of Captain Marvel all examined in this volume Death and disability presumed routinely absent or denied in the superhero genre emerge to form a core theme and defining function of the Silver Age and beyond

Figuring Death in Classical Athens Emily Clifford, 2025-02-12 Figuring Death in Classical Athens puts art and literature in conversation to explore how ancient Athenians grappled with the uncertainties of death How did objects and texts generate thinking about what death is and might be like Were Athenians aware of the imaginative frameworks that underpinned their thinking Did they worry not just about death but whether they could figure it out Death in the ancient world has long been a subject of interest Studies abound that examine its social and ideological dimensions funerary practices and changing attitudes and beliefs This book takes a fresh approach cutting across sub disciplines art text philosophy and so on to build a picture of how ancient art and literature got their audiences thinking thinking not just about death but about its knowability Whether in the theatre at the symposium or on the Acropolis representations of death challenged Athenians by presenting problems of exteriority how can the living know what dying might be like and particularity can one person's experience hold for another is death truly a leveller The material covered is wide ranging Unlike other studies which often focus on either art or text and on one category of objects or one literary genre the book pulls together exemplary texts and objects including Plato drinking cups Sophocles temple sculpture and Thucydides and makes each accessible to readers from multiple sub disciplines and indeed from beyond Classics It will be critical reading for those interested in ancient attitudes to death as well as those interested in cultural imagination and intellectual history As a multi media study it will appeal to those working on ancient image and text and their intersection and more broadly to those in other disciplines working on visuality mediality materiality and culturally situated ideas D-Day in History and Memory Michael Dolski, Sam Edwards, John Buckley, 2014-03-15 Over the past sixty five years the Allied invasion of Northwestern France in June 1944 known as D Day has come to stand as something more than a major battle The assault itself formed a vital component of Allied victory in the Second World War D Day developed into a sign and symbol as a word it carries with it a series of ideas and associations that have come to symbolize different things to different people and nations As such the commemorative activities linked to the battle offer a window for viewing the various belligerents in their postwar years This book examines the commonalities and differences in national collective memories of D Day Chapters cover the main forces on the day of battle including the United States Great Britain Canada France and Germany In addition a chapter on Russian memory of the invasion explores other views of the battle The overall thrust of the book shows that memories of the past vary over time link to present day needs and also still have a clear national and cultural specificity These memories arise in a multitude of locations such as film books monuments anniversary celebrations and news media representations The Book Review Digest ,2003 Journal of Narrative Theory ,2006 Cultural studies critical theory poststructuralism feminist theory new historicism The Classical Review ,2005
