Monet, Tchaikovsky, Zola, and the World They Made Kristof Haavik,2022-06-20 This book tells the story of three young men two French one Russian all born the same year when European culture was moving from Romanticism to something else in painting music and literature Influenced by the environment from which they came all three grew to take a leading role in moving the arts in a bold new direction It was the age when Impressionism reinvented what painting could be when Naturalism changed how fiction is written and when Russia moved from the edges of European society to the vital role it has played ever since. Leading guiding determining this new course were Monet, Tchaikovsky and Zola. Parallel biographies of these three artistic geniuses follow them from the magic year of their birth to the point when they established themselves as bold original creators in the early 1870s. The book explores how they chose to follow careers in creative art, how each of them came to play such a central role in their respective domains and how those arts interacted and influenced each other. As they move through the cultural world of 19th century Europe, a panorama appears of the rich intellectual environment of France and Russia in that period as well as the unique experiences and talents that led all three to their towering position in modern culture. Often considered separately, art, music and literature come together in this study to offer a multifaceted view of a key era in the development of modernism in all the arts.

Views of Russia & Russian Works on Paper, The Fate of the New Man Claire McCallum, 2018-07-03

Between 1945 and 1965 the catastrophe of war and the social and political changes it brought in its wake had a major impact on the construction of the Soviet masculine ideal. Drawing upon a wide range of visual material, The Fate of the New Man traces the dramatic changes in the representation of the Soviet man in the postwar period. It focuses on the two identities that came to dominate such depictions in the two decades after the end of the war: the Soviet man's previous role as a soldier and his new role in the home once the war was over. In this compelling study, Claire McCallum focuses on the reconceptualization of military heroism after the war, the representation of contentious subjects such as the war-damaged body and bereavement, and postwar changes to the depiction of the Soviet man as father. McCallum shows that it was the Second World War rather than the process of de-Stalinization that had the greatest impact on the masculine ideal, proving that even under the constraints of Socialist Realism the physical and emotional devastation caused by the war was too great to go unacknowledged. The Fate of the New Man makes an important contribution to Soviet masculinity studies. McCallum's research also contributes to broader debates surrounding the impact of Stalin's death on Soviet society and on the nature of the subsequent Thaw, as well as to those concerning the relationship between Soviet culture and the realities of Soviet life. This fascinating study will appeal to scholars and students of Soviet history, masculinity studies and visual culture studies.

Russian Orientalism in a global context Maria Taroutina, Allison Leigh, 2023-06-27

This volume features new research on Russia's historic relationship with Asia and the ways it was mediated and represented in the fine decorative and performing arts and architecture from the mid-eighteenth century to the first two decades of Soviet rule. It interrogates how Russia's perception of its position on the periphery of the west and its simultaneous self-consciousness as a colonial power shaped its artistic, cultural and national identity as a heterogeneous multi-ethnic empire. It also explores the extent to which cultural practitioners participated in the discursive matrices that advanced Russia's colonial machinery on the one hand and critiqued and challenged it on the other, especially in territories that were themselves on the fault lines between the east and the west.
