Staging the War Albert Wertheim, 2004-03-16 What happened in American drama in the years between the Depression and the conclusion of World War II How did war make its impact on the theatre More important how was drama used during the war years to shape American beliefs and actions Albert Wertheim s Staging the War brings to light the important role played by the drama during what might arguably be called the most important decade in American history. As much of the country experienced the dislocation of military service and work in war industries, the dramatic arts registered the enormous changes to the boundaries of social classes, ethnicities, and gender roles. In research ranging over more than 150 plays, Wertheim discusses some of the well-known works of the period, including The Time of Your Life, Our Town, Watch on the Rhine, and All My Sons. But he also uncovers little-known and largely unpublished plays for the stage and radio by such future luminaries as Arthur Miller and Frank Loesser, including those written at the behest of the U.S. government or as U.S.O. musicals. The American Son, of refugees who escaped the Third Reich in 1937, Wertheim gives life to this vital period in American history. Army, 1997 Soldiers, 1997 A Private in the Texas Army, John A. Pearce, 2022-01-19

Sulphur Springs native Frank Webster Pearce was a soldier in Texas' own 36th Infantry Division and the 111th Engineer Combat Battalion. The Division's story has been told before, but never from start to finish by a combat engineer whose footprints stirred the sands of three invasion beaches, wallowed through the mud, and trudged in the snow of every battle. From training in the United States to the war's end in Austria, Pearce chronicled it all. With the combination of diary, numerous letters home, and official division reports, this is the most complete look ever produced on the 111th Engineers and their war against Hitler's Germany. This is a primary account written daily as the events unfolded. It was the war years. Here you find out how to properly bury a man in the water-soaked Italian soil, a foolproof way to smuggle liquor from the US to the soldiers overseas, the foul stench of death reeking across the battlefield, and the beauty of exploding artillery shells in the night sky. These are his thoughts and letters as he wrote them raw and unfiltered. Homer Is Where the Heart Is, John Randall Tabor, 2011-07-28

JOHN RANDALL TABOR grew up in north Louisiana in the town of Homer. In 1962 he earned a bachelor's degree in English education at Louisiana Tech. In 1968 he was awarded a master's degree in journalism from Louisiana State University. For thirty-three years he taught English composition and news writing at LSU in Shreveport, where he also was director of information services and director of alumni affairs. In addition, Tabor was president of the Ark-La-Tex chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi. From 2002-2003 he wrote a weekly column for The Homer Guardian newspaper, and throughout his career he has published a number of feature articles, one of which won first place at the Deep South Writers Conference. He currently lives in the village of Bethany, Louisiana, where he is working on a novel, The Glorious Weight of the Noonday Sun. LIFE, 1943-11-15

The home front during World War II was one of blackouts, Victory Gardens, war bonds, and scrap drives. It was also a time of social upheaval, with women on the assembly line and in the armed forces, and African Americans serving and working in a Jim Crow war effort. See how
