Sternberg,David D. Preiss,2022-11-19 This book reflects on the various ways in which intelligence can manifest itself in the wide range of diverse contexts in which people live Intelligence is often viewed as being tantamount to a score or set of scores on a decontextualized standardized intelligence test But intelligence always acts within a sociocultural context Indeed early theorists defined intelligence in terms of adaptation to the environment in which one lives The tradition of decontextualization is old dating back to the very beginning of the 20th century with the development of the Binet Simon Intelligence Scales This tradition is not only old however but obsolete Because people live in different sociocultural as well as physical environments intelligence can take somewhat different forms in different places and even at different times The chapters in this edited volume show that intelligence viewed in the abstract is a somewhat vacuous concept it needs to be contextualized in terms of people's physical and sociocultural surroundings languages and psychology The SAGE Encyclopedia of Action Research David Coghlan, Mary Brydon-Miller, 2014-08-11 Action research is a term used to describe a family of related approaches that integrate theory and action with a goal of addressing important organizational community and social issues together with those who experience them It focuses on the creation of areas for collaborative learning and the design enactment and evaluation of liberating actions through combining action and research reflection and action in an ongoing cycle of cogenerative knowledge While the roots of these methodologies go back to the 1940s there has been a dramatic increase in research output and adoption in university curricula over the past decade This is now an area of high popularity among academics and researchers from various fields especially business and organization studies education health care nursing development studies and social and community work The SAGE Encyclopedia of Action Research brings together the many strands of action research and addresses the interplay between these disciplines by presenting a state of the art overview and comprehensive breakdown of the key tenets and methods of action research as well as detailing the work of key theorists and contributors to action research Doing Educational Research , 2006-01-01 Doing Educational Research explores a variety of important issues and methods in educational research Contributors include some of the most important voices in educational research In the handbook these scholars provide detailed insights into one dimension of the research process that engages both students as well as experienced researchers with key concepts and recent innovations in the domain The editors and authors believe that there is a need for a handbook on educational research that is both practical as it introduces beginning scholars to the field and innovative as it pushes the boundaries of the conversation about educational research at this historical juncture In this collection the editors and authors explore a variety of topics from methodologies such as ethnography action research hermeneutics historiography psychoanalysis literary criticism to issues such as social theory epistemology and paradigms Readers will be pleased with the way the book addresses complex topics in an accessible and readable manner

Embodied Curriculum Theory and Research in Arts Education Susan W. Stinson, 2015-10-26 This collection of articles by Susan W Stinson organized thematically and chronologically by the author reveals the evolution of the field of arts education in general and dance education in particular through narrative and critical reflections by this unique scholar and a few co authors It also includes contextual insights not available elsewhere The author's pioneering embodied research work in arts and dance education continues to be relevant to researchers today The selected chapters and articles were predominantly previously published in a variety of journals conference proceedings and books between 1985 and the present Each section is preceded by an introduction and the author has written a post scriptum for each article to offer a commentary or response to the article from the current perspective Barrio Nerds Juan F. Carrillo, 2016-11-24 When Pulitzer Prize nominated author Richard Rodriguez published his autobiography Hunger for Memory The Education of Richard Rodriguez in 1982 he received much criticism due to his views on issues such as assimilation bilingual education and affirmative action

Polemically since Rodriguez's publication a book length revisiting of some of his ideas is for the most part non-existent. Inspired by Rodriguez's work Barrio Nerds: Latino Males, Schooling, and the Beautiful Struggle presents a compelling window into the schooling trajectories of Latino males while also providing critical and alternative views. These portraits of working class students and academics that achieved academic success move beyond clean victory narratives and thus complicate our notions of success and rising up. Blending versus separating the exploration of street kid/school kid identities we get a glimpse into the merging and collision of multiple cultural worlds in ways that are liberating and often painful and full of ambivalence. Additionally we get provocative takes on giftedness, the philosophical and political dimensions of home and masculinities. Ultimately Barrio Nerds: Latino Males, Schooling, and the Beautiful Struggle is a reminder of how academic achievement is often embedded in gain and in loss and it is a thoughtful meditation on how many Latino males of working class origins do not reject the past but instead use this precious knowledge to holistically live out the present.
