Bowes, John V. Krutilla, 2014-04-04 In this book Bowes and Krutilla bring together what is known and relevant about valuing the nonmarket services of the public forests and propose a new theoretical framework that allows multiple uses the biological dynamics of the forest and the institutional and economic realities of public forest management to be taken into account in forest planning and budgeting The authors begin by tracing the development of multiple use in forest management and by exploring the multiple uses of the public forests and the economics of multiple use forestry They offer a masterful analysis of the nineteenth century model of the single timber stand on which much forestry practice has been premised Bowes and Krutilla then take a giant step forward by developing a larger theoretical framework and showing how forest structure and dynamics can be included in the economic model The authors rigorous exposition theory provides the foundation for analyzing case studies of management for timber and water yields in the Rockies of recreation valuation in the Black Hills and White Mountain national forests and of joint production in the White Clouds Peaks analyses that demonstrate the authors great skill in developing practical methodologies to meet actual forest management problems The Journal of Agricultural Economics Research ,1990 General Technical Report PNW-GTR ,2002 Understanding the Compatibility of Multiple Uses on Forest Land James A. Sills, Karen Lee Abt, 2013-04-17 This book draws together contributions from forest economists in the Research Triangle of North Carolina with co authors from institutions around the world It represents our common belief that rigorous empirical analysis in an economic framework can inform forest policy We intend the book as a guide to the empirical methods that we have found most useful for addressing both traditional and modern areas of concern in forest policy including timber production and markets multiple use forestry and valuation of non market benefits The book editors and most chapter authors are affiliated with three institutions in the Research Triangle the Southern Research Station of the USDA Forest Service K Abt Butry Holmes Mercer Moulton Prestemon Wear the Department of Forestry at North Carolina State University R Abt Ahn Cabbage Sills and the Environmental and Natural Resource Economics Program of Research Triangle Institute Murray Pattanayak Two other Triangle institutions are also represented among the book authors Duke University Kramer and the Forestland Group Zinkhan In addition to our primary affiliations many of us are adjunct faculty and or graduates of Triangle universities Many of our co authors also graduated from or were previously affiliated with Triangle institutions Thus the selection of topics methods and case studies reflects the work of this particular network of economists and to some degree our location in the southeastern United States However our work and the chapters encompass other regions of the

Jensen, 2013-03-09 Planted forests from irrigated eucalypts in Brazil to Douglas fir seedlings in the mountains of Oregon are described and discussed by international experts The varieties purposes forms and ecological economic and social aspects of planted forests are considered in technical details and in case studies from temperate and tropical regions of the world Spatial Aspects of Environmental Policy Wayne Gray, 2019-01-22

There has been a recent explosion of research incorporating a spatial dimension in environmental and natural resource economics where the spatial aspects of human behaviour or the natural environment make a crucial difference in the analysis and policy response to the problem Much of this research has been driven by the growing availability of spatially explicit social science data and the development of tools and methodological advances to use these data Collected in this volume are 24 key articles considering the reasons for spatial variation in policies due to either efficiency or equity considerations and the consequences of that spatial variation for both environmental and economic outcomes These articles demonstrate that the failure to address spatial issues in the analysis can create two problems 1 the analysis provides a poor basis for predicting actual behaviour that is specifically based upon spatial considerations and 2 the analysis fails to provide a basis for designing spatially targeted policies that could lead to more efficient outcomes Forum for Applied Research and Public Policy ,1987
