

Poetry vs. Prose

Prose

- There are no line breaks. Sentences run to the right margin.
- The first word of each sentence is capitalized.
- Prose looks like large blocks of words.

Poetry

- Poetry uses line breaks for various reasons—to follow a formatted rhythm or to emphasize an idea. Lines can run extremely long or be as short as one word or letter.
- Traditionally, the first letter of every line is capitalized, but many modern poets choose not to follow this rule strictly.
- The shape of poetry can vary depending on line length and the intent of the poet.

Prose Writings:

Poems and Prose Writings Richard Henry Dana, 1850 Collected Critical Writings Geoffrey Hill, 2009 The Collected Critical Writings gathers more than forty years of Hill's published criticism in a revised final form and also adds much new work. It will serve as the canonical volume of criticism by Hill, the pre-eminent poet-critic whom A. N. Wilson has called probably the best writer alive in verse or in prose. In his criticism Hill ranges widely investigating both poets including Jonson, Dryden, Hopkins, Whitman, Eliot, and Yeats and prose writers such as Tyndale, Clarendon, Hobbes, Burton, Emerson, and F. H. Bradley. He is also steeped in the historical context, political, poetic, and religious of the writers he studies. Most importantly, he brings texts and contexts into new and telling relations, neither reducing texts to the circumstances of their utterance nor imagining that they can float free of them. A number of the essays have already established themselves as essential reading on particular subjects such as his analysis of Vaughan's The Night, his discussion of Gurney's poetry, and his critical account of The Oxford English Dictionary. Others confront the problems of language and the nature of value directly as in Our Word is Our Bond, Language Suffering and Value, and Poetry and Value. In all his criticism Hill reveals literature to be an essential arena of civic intelligence. Prose Writings William Cullen Bryant, 1884 Index of English Literary Manuscripts Margaret M. Smith, 1989-11-01 Eleven authors are included in this final part of Volume III of the Index, beginning with Laurence Sterne and concluding with Edward Young. It also includes the final cumulative first-line index of all the verse which is described in the manuscript entries or mentioned in the Introductions in Parts 1-4 of Volume III. The Poetical and Prose Writings of Charles Sprague Charles Sprague, 1850 Poems and Prose Writings Richard Henry Dana, 2025-05-22 This volume presents a collection of poems and prose writings by Richard Henry Dana, a prominent figure in 19th-century American literature. Featuring a diverse range of works, Poems and Prose Writings Volume 1 showcases Dana's poetic talent and insightful prose style. Readers will find a compelling blend of lyrical verse and thoughtful essays that reflect the literary and cultural landscape of his time. Dana's writings offer a window into the intellectual and artistic currents of 19th-century America, making this collection a valuable resource for students and scholars of American literature as well as anyone interested in the rich literary heritage of the United States. This volume captures the essence of Dana's contribution to American letters, preserving his unique voice for contemporary readers.
