Computing PROSODY Yoshinori Sagisaka, Nick Campbell, Norio Higuchi, 2012-12-06 This book presents a collection of papers from the Spring 1995 Work shop on Computational Approaches to Processing the Prosody of Spontaneous Speech hosted by the ATR Interpreting Telecommunications Research Laboratories in Kyoto Japan The workshop brought together leading researchers in the fields of speech and signal processing electrical engineering psychology and linguistics to discuss aspects of spontaneous speech prosody and to suggest approaches to its computational analysis and modelling The book is divided into four sections Part I gives an overview and theoretical background to the nature of spontaneous speech differentiating it from the lab speech that has been the focus of so many earlier analyses Part II focuses on the prosodic features of discourse and the structure of the spoken message Part III on the generation and modelling of prosody for computer speech synthesis Part IV discusses how prosodic information can be used in the context of automatic speech recognition Each section of the book starts with an invited overview paper to situate the chapters in the context of current research We feel that this collection of papers offers interesting insights into the scope and nature of the problems concerned with the computational analysis and modelling of real spontaneous speech and expect that these works will not only form the basis of further developments in each field but also merge to form an integrated computational model of prosody for a better understanding of human processing of the complex interactions of the speech chain

Automatic Assessment of Prosody in Second Language Learning Florian Hönig, 2017

Worldwide there is a universal need for second language language learning It is obvious that the computer can be a great help for this especially when equipped with methods for automatically assessing the learner s pronunciation While assessment of segmental pronunciation quality i e whether phones and words are pronounced correctly or not is already available in commercial software packages prosody i e rhythm word accent etc is largely ignored although it highly impacts intelligibility and listening effort The present thesis contributes to closing this gap by developing and analyzing methods for automatically assessing the prosody of non native speakers We study the detection of word accent errors and the general assessment of the appropriateness of a speaker s rhythm We propose a flexible generic approach that is a very successful on these tasks b competitive to other state of the art result and at the same time c flexible and easily adapted to new tasks

Cole, Mark A. Hasegawa-Johnson, 2007 In this chapter we proposed a novel approach that improves the robustness of prosody dependent language modeling by leveraging the dependence between prosody and syntax In our experiments on Radio News Corpus a factorial prosody dependent language model estimated using our proposed approach has achieved as much as 31% reduction of the joint perplexity over a prosody dependent language model estimated using the standard Maximum Likelihood approach In recognition experiments our approach results in a 1% improvement in word recognition accuracy 0.7% improvement in accent recognition accuracy and 1.5% improvement in intonational phrase boundary IPB recognition accuracy over the baseline prosody dependent recognizer The study in the chapter shows that

Proceedings of the Speech Prosody 2008 Conference , Intonation A. Botinis, 2012-12-06 ANTONIS BOTINIS 1.1 Background This introduction provides essential information about the structure and the objects of study of this volume Following the introduction fourteen papers which represent current research on intonation are organised into five thematic sections I Overview of Intonation II Prominence and Focus III Boundaries and Discourse IV Intonation Modelling and V Intonation Technology Within the sections the papers are arranged thematically although several papers which deal with various aspects of intonation and prosody are basically intersectional As the title indicates Intonation Analysis Modelling and Technology is a contribution to the study of prosody with major emphasis on intonation Intonation and tonal themes are thus the central object of the volume although temporal and dynamic aspects are also taken into consideration by a good number of papers Although tonal and prosodic distinctions have been dealt with throughout man's literate history with reference to the study of language for example by classical philosophers such as Plato and Aristotle it is in recent decades that we have witnessed the most fertile growth in intonation studies as with experimental phonetics and speech technology in general As Rossi this volume points out intonation research really began to blossom in the sixties with a multi fold increase in prosodic studies reflected in contributions to the International Congress of Phonetic Sciences ICPhS and in the international literature
