Protected agriculture, precision agriculture, and vertical farming: Brief reviews of issues in the literature focusing on the developing region in Asia Takeshima, Hiroyuki, Joshi, Pramod Kumar, 2019-03-07 The frontiers of technologies have been constantly expanded in many industries around the world including the agricultural sector Among many frontier technologies in agriculture are protected agriculture precision agriculture and vertical farming all of which depart substantially from many conventional agricultural production methods It is not yet clear how these technologies can become adoptable in developing countries including for example South Asian countries like India This paper briefly reviews the issues associated with these three types of frontier technologies We do so by systematically checking the academic articles listed in Google Scholar which primarily focus on these technologies in developing countries in Asia Where appropriate a few widely cited overview articles for each technology were also reviewed The findings generally reveal where performances of these technologies can be raised potentially based on the general trends in the literature Where evidence is rich some generalizable economic insights about these technologies are provided For protected agriculture recent research has focused significantly on various features of protective structures tunnel heights covering materials shading structures frames and sizes indicating that there are potentials for adaptive research on such structures to raise the productivity of protected agriculture The research on protected agriculture also focuses on types of climate parameters controlled and energy structures among others For precision agriculture recent research has focused on the spatial variability of production environments development of efficient and suitable data management systems efficiency of various types of image analyses and optical sensing efficiency of sensors and related technologies designs of precision agriculture equipment optimal inputs and service uses and their spatial allocations potentials of unmanned aerial vehicles UAVs and nano technologies For vertical farming research has often highlighted the variations in technologies based on out door indoor systems ways to improve plants access to light natural or artificial growing medium and nutrient water supply advanced features like electricity generation and integration of production space into an office residential space and water treatment For India issues listed above may be some of the key areas that the country can draw on from other more advanced countries in Asia or can focus in its adaptive research to improve the relevance and applicability of these technologies to the country

Unlocking the potential of protected agriculture in the countries of the Gulf Cooperation Council - Saving water and improving nutrition Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations , 2021-04-22 The Gulf Cooperation Council GCC is a political and economic union of Arab states namely Bahrain Kuwait Oman Qatar Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates The GCC was formed in 1981 to strengthen the members economic social and political ties by harmonizing regulations in various fields including economy finance trade and customs The region extends over a territory of 2 673 108 km² and is home to about 50 million people The common denominators of the GCC countries are limited natural fertile land scarce water resources and harsh climate Depending on the country the agriculture sector may use as much as 75 percent of the national available water resources This has enormous environmental costs and significantly affects the sustainability of overall development in the Arabian Peninsula According to Al Rashed and Sherif 2000 the lack of renewable water resources is one of the critical constraints to sustainable development in the GCC countries Rainfall in the Arabian Peninsula is scarce and infrequent Over exploitation of fossil groundwater resources mostly to meet irrigation demands and create greenery lands has already affected the productivity of aquifers both quantitatively and qualitatively despite the fact that much of the freshwater demand in the GCC countries is already covered using desalinated water Reducing water consumption and increasing water efficiency are essential to enhancing agriculture and moving towards increased self sufficiency with the production of high quality safe and diversified foods in the GCC countries Exploiting the full potential of protected agriculture should save significant amounts of water which can be used not only for agriculture but for other needs as well Protected

Hydroponics for the Home , Health Statistics for the Americas Haeduck Lee, José Luis Bobadilla, 1994-01-01 Technical Paper No 262. The data provided in this report expand and update Appendix A of World Development Report 1993 Investing in Health WDR. The report presents the data by subject Part A and by country Part B. Part C contains technical notes concerning methods and data sources. This volume adds the large number of Latin American and Caribbean countries with populations of less than 3 million that were excluded from the WDR because of space constraints. It also adds data from Canada and the United States for completeness and comparison. Updates are presented for eight statistics: gross national product (GNP), GNP per capita, population, population growth rate, total fertility, life expectancy at birth, infant mortality rate, and maternal mortality rate. Newly revised figures for items related to health expenditure have made possible an extensive update of earlier statistics, and the addition of more countries to one of the country tables.

Equity Issues in Public Examinations in Developing Countries Vincent Greaney, Thomas Kellaghan, 1995 World Bank Technical Paper No 272. Public examinations in developing countries play a critical role in the selection of students for participation in the educational system. The exams dictate what is taught, how it is taught, and what is and is not.

Health Expenditures in Latin America Ramesh Govindaraj, Christopher J. L. Murray, Gnanaraj Chellaraj, 1995-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper No 274. The preparation of the World Bank's World Development Report 1993 Investing in Health WDR included an effort to assemble internationally comparable statistics on a broad range of health and health system indicators. Data had to be compiled from existing sources while analytical efforts were made to improve the quality and comparability of the data. This paper presents an expanded and updated version of the WDR estimates of 1990 health expenditures for the countries of Latin America and the Caribbean. Whereas the population cut-off for inclusion in the WDR was 3 million, these tables include almost all countries in the region This update of the expenditures results in a substantial upward revision in the estimated percentage of GNP spent on health in the region in 1990 from 4 to 6%
