

A photograph of a large brown bear and its cubs in a forest. The adult bear is standing on its hind legs, leaning against a tree trunk, and looking towards the camera. Three cubs are also visible: one is climbing a tree trunk above the adult, another is climbing a tree trunk below the adult, and a third is standing on the ground to the right. The forest floor is covered in green grass and white wildflowers. The background is a dense forest of tall, thin trees.

Creative Common Law Strategies for Protecting the Environment Lynn L. Bergeson, Tracy Hester, 2007 Publisher Description Wildlife Conservation in China Richard B. Harris, 2014-12-18 Very little is known about the issue of wildlife conservation within China Even China specialists get a meager ration of stories about pandas giving birth in zoos or poachers in some remote setting being apprehended But what does the future hold for China s wildlife In this thoughtful work the leading U S expert on wildlife projects in Western China presents a multi faceted assessment of the topic Richard B Harris draws on twenty years of experience working in China and incorporates perspectives ranging from biology through Chinese history and tradition to interpret wildlife conservation issues in a cultural context In non technical language Harris shows that particularly in its vast western sections where most species of wildlife still have a chance to survive China has adopted a strongly preservationist hands off approach to wildlife without confronting the larger and more difficult problem of habitat loss This policy treats wildlife conservation as a strictly technical problem and thus prioritizes captive breeding to meet the demand for animal products while ignoring the manifold cultural social and economic dimensions that truly dictate how wild animals will fare in their interaction with the physical and human environments The author concludes that any successes this policy achieves will be temporary Science and Stewardship to Protect and Sustain Wilderness Values, 2003 The Seventh World Wilderness Congress met in Port Elizabeth South Africa in 2001 The symposium on science and stewardship to protect and sustain wilderness values was one of several symposia held in conjunction with the Congress The papers contained in this proceedings were presented at this symposium and cover seven topics state of knowledge on protected areas issues in South Africa traditional and ecological values of nature wilderness systems and approaches to protection protection of coastal marine and river lake wilderness spiritual benefits religious beliefs and new stories personal and societal values of wilderness and the role of science education and collaborative planning in wilderness protection and restoration Science and Stewardship to Protect and Sustain Wilderness Values Alan E.
