Proust Beckett And Narration:

Proust, Beckett, and Narration James H. Reid, 2003-10-13 This is a comprehensive comparison of the narrative techniques of two of the twentieth century's most important writers of prose. Using a combination of theoretical analysis and close readings of Proust's A la recherche du temps perdu and Beckett's trilogy of novels Molloy, Malone Dies, and The Unnamable, James H. Reid compares the two novelists' use of first person narration in constructing and demystifying fictions of consciousness. Reid focuses on the narrator's search to represent the voice that speaks the novel; a search, he argues, that structures first person narration in the works of both novelists. He examines in detail the significant impact of Proust's writing on Beckett's own work as well as Beckett's subtle reworkings of Proust's themes and strategies. This study is an important contribution to critical literature and offers fresh perspectives on the crucial importance of the Recherche and the trilogy in the context of the twentieth century novel. Modern Manuscripts and the Pre-History of Digital

Humanities Alex Christie, 2024-06-01 While text processing is often associated with the digital humanities, it is still seen as worlds apart from literary modernism and its aesthetic preoccupations. This book upsets that narrative. Examining literary manuscripts from some of the twentieth century's best known and lesser known novelists from Marcel Proust to Mina Loy, Alex Christie reveals where authors experimented with proto-digital writing methods by hand. Instead of looking to computers as sources of inspiration, the authors discussed turned to twentieth century media for their ability to reveal new layers of the material world. From analog fantasies of contacting the dead to digital anxieties of invisible information, the aesthetic ambitions of these novels can be traced back to their author's interest in emerging media devices and their technical operation. To capture the magic of such devices through writing, these authors devised radical methods for generating literary text, anticipating today's digital humanities. A Reader's Guide to Proust's 'In Search of Lost Time' David Ellison, 2010-02-18

A detailed analysis of Proust's masterpiece aimed at students coming to the work for the first time. The Prosthetic Imagination Peter Boxall, 2020-09-03 In The Prosthetic Imagination, leading critic Peter Boxall argues that we are now entering an artificial age in which our given bodies enter into new conjunctions with our prosthetic extensions. This new age requires us to reimagine our relation to our bodies and to our environments, and Boxall suggests that the novel as a form can guide us in this imaginative task. Across a dazzling range of prose fictions from Thomas More's Utopia to Margaret Atwood's Oryx and Crake, Boxall shows how the novel has played a central role in forging the bodies in which we extend ourselves into the world. But if the novel has helped to give our world a human shape, it also contains forms of life that elude our existing human architectures: new amalgams of the living and the non-living that are the hidden province of the novel imagination. These latent conjunctions, Boxall argues, are preserved in the novel form and offer us images of embodied being that can help us orient ourselves to our new prosthetic condition. Weakness: A Literary and Philosophical History Michael

O'Sullivan, 2012-05-24 Examining the nature of weakness has inspired some of the most influential aesthetic and philosophical portraits of the human condition By reading a selection of canonical literary and philosophical texts Michael O Sullivan charts a history of responses to the experience and exploration of weakness Beginning with Plato and Aristotle this first book length study of the concept explores weakness as it is interpreted by Lao Tzu Nietzsche Derrida the Romantics Dickens and the Modernists It examines what feminist writers Simone de Beauvoir and Luce Irigaray have made of the gendered biomythology constructed around the figure of the weaker vessel and it considers related notions such as im potentiality a syntax of weakness and human vulnerability in the work of Agamben Beckett and Coetzee Through analysis of these differing versions of weakness O Sullivan s study challenges the popular myth that aligns masculine identity with strength and force and presents a humane weakness as a guiding motif for debates in ethics Brazilian Theater,

1970-2010 Eva Paulino Bueno,Robson Corrêa de Camargo,2015-03-25 How did Brazilian theater survive under the military dictatorship of 1964 1985 How did it change once the regime was over This collection of new essays is the first to cover Brazilian theater during this period Brazilian scholars and artists discuss the history of a theater community that not only resisted the regime but reinvented itself and continued to develop more sophisticated forms of expression even in the face of competition from television and other media The contributors recount the struggle to stage meaningful plays at a time when some artists and intellectuals were exiled others imprisoned tortured or killed With the return of democracy other important issues arose how to ensure space for different practices and for regional theater and how to continue producing international plays that could be meaningful for a Brazilian audience A Bibliography for the Study of French Literature and

Culture Since 1885 Sheri Dion,2012-09 The Metaphysical Vision Ulrich Pothast,2008 The Metaphysical Vision Arthur Schopenhauer s Philosophy of Art and Life and Samuel Beckett s Own Way to Make Use of It expands upon the ideas and theories set forth in the author s Die eigentlich metaphysische Tätigkeit Schopenhauers sthetik und ihre Anwendung durch Samuel Beckett published in German in 1982 and hailed by Catharina Wulf in her book The Imperative of Narration 1997 as an excellent study and the most thorough enquiry into Beckett and Schopenhauer In the last years of the twentieth century new documents regarding Samuel Beckett s reading and thinking especially important notebooks and letters have become accessible to scholars These documents show much more clearly than could ever be demonstrated previously that Beckett had a strong lifelong interest in Schopenhauer s philosophy There is no other philosopher to whom Beckett refers more often in his personal comments throughout the years of his writing up to his seventies no other philosopher whose view of life and the world comes closer to the image of human existence we find in Samuel Beckett s literary work The striking similarity in matters of world view and human life and especially the evidence obtained from Beckett s previously unknown notebooks and letters call for a close systematic study of the Beckett Schopenhauer relationship Due to its comprehensiveness and in depth approach The Metaphysical Vision is and will be for many years to come what its forerunner was for more than two decades the most thorough enquiry into Beckett and Schopenhauer Proust's Snobs, Inverts, and Jews Adeline Soldin, 2025-03-06 An intersectional investigation of identity formation in Marcel Proust's magnum opus À la Recherche du Temps Perdu snobs, inverteds, and Jews prove to be deeply intertwined and perplexing representations. Attentive to these interwoven complexities, Proust's Snobs, Inverteds, and Jews examines the novelist's exploitation of classification systems as a means to subvert the notion of a fixed identity. To illustrate Proust's challenges to a social order that restricts our perceptions of identity, Adeline Soldin addresses the inconsistencies and friction surrounding the portrayal of these key figures in his seven-volume novel. Many scholars have recognized that the narrator's formative journey in À la Recherche leads to disillusionment and increased mockery of his fellow characters. Soldin contends, however, that Proust does not merely deride characters' behavior but rather interrogates their diverse motivations and tendencies, thereby exposing the performative nature of identity. Proust's Snobs, Inverteds, and Jews draws on Judith Butler's theories of performativity to illustrate Proust's precocious portrayal of identity in À la Recherche as an elusive, unattainable idea that characters pursue yet consistently fail to establish. Ultimately, the enigmatic and anonymous narrator models fluidity and promotes fantasy and imagination to compensate for the limitations imposed on individuals by social and linguistic conventions. Modernism,

Narrative and Humanism Paul Sheehan, 2002-08-01 In Modernism, Narrative and Humanism, Paul Sheehan attempts to redefine modernist narrative for the twenty-first century. For Sheehan, modernism presents a major form of critique of the fundamental presumptions of humanism. By pairing key modernist writers with philosophical critics of the humanist tradition, he shows how modernists sought to discover humanism's inhuman potential. He examines the development of narrative during the modernist period and sets it against, among others, the nineteenth-century philosophical writings of Schopenhauer, Darwin, and Nietzsche. Focusing on the major novels and poetics of Conrad, Lawrence, Woolf, and Beckett, Sheehan investigates these writers' mistrust of humanist orthodoxy and their consequent transformations and disfigurements of narrative order. He reveals the crucial link between the modernist novel's narrative concerns and its philosophical orientation in a book that will be of compelling interest to scholars of modernism and literary theory. The Split Subject of Narration in Elizabeth

Gaskell's First Person Fiction Anna Koustinoudi, 2011-12-16 The Split Subject of Narration in Elizabeth Gaskell's First Person Fiction analyzes a number of Elizabeth Gaskell's first-person works through a postmodern perspective, employing such theoretical frameworks as psychoanalytic theory, narratology, and gender theory. It attempts to explore the problematics of Victorian subjectivity, bringing into focus the ways in which both her realistic and Gothic texts undercut and interrogate post-Romantic assumptions about an autonomous and coherent speaking and/or narrating subject. The essential argument of the book is that the mid-nineteenth-century narrating "I" in its communal, voyeuristic, and Gothic manifestations emerges as painfully divided, lacking, unstable, ailing, and hence unreliable, prefiguring at the same time later forms of self-conscious narration in fiction. Furthermore, it is also exposed as performative, one that can be seen as a simulacrum without an original.

and consequently at odds with post Romantic empiricist assumptions about the factuality centrality and rationality of the human subject while at the same time clinging to illusions of autonomy Plagued by its own self awareness the narrating I is alienated both from itself as well as from those it attempts to represent including its own narrated counterpart To this effect it argues that throughout a trajectory of configurations psychic investments and imaginary identifications embedded in and conditioned by the workings of desire and ideology both of which underpin discursive and representational practices narrative subjectivity in Gaskell s first person fiction manifests itself as the product of a misrecognized encounter between the subject who narrates and that which is being narrated Both are essentially unable to see their split character and the alienating chasm opened up between them for the former on the level of narration and for the latter on a thematic level

Revisiting Molloy, Malone meurt / Malone Dies and L'Innommable / The Unnamable David Tucker, Mark Nixon, Dirk Van Hulle, 2014-09-05      Women's Vision in Western Literature Laurence M. Porter, 2005-02-28 From ancient Greece through the present day women writers have confronted the male urge to make war by imagining communities in which intuitive bonding among individuals questions and replaces masculinist values of aggression and competition Women s Vision in Western Literature traces the gender gap in literature from 600 B C to the present day through an examination of seven extraordinary women writers from Sappho to Christa Wolf Combining close readings with a comprehensive overview of the careers of these women Porter shows how the threat the experience and the aftermath of war incites them to imagine tolerant empathic communities This careful consideration of these seven great writers brings to light an underappreciated aspect of Western women s writing Starting with Sappho Porter illustrates this ancient poet s ability to rewrite the Homeric war rhetoric to reflect a non possessive love experience Marie de France arranges traditional animal fables to imply an open ended situation ethics according to the author and Madame de Stael in a Europe torn by Napoleonic conquests advocates cross cultural unions among countries In the works of Mary Shelley we see the warnings of the dangers of vainglorious soulless technology and Virginia Woolf depicts intuitive bonding beyond gender stereotypes amid the ruins of war and crumbling empire He shows how Marguerite Yourcenar dreams of a new era of world peace after Hitler s defeat and how Christa Wolf tries to cope with her country s Nazi past even as she reaffirms European identity threatened by annihilations in nuclear conflict      Anamnesia Peter Collier, Anna Magdalena Elsner, Olga Smith, 2009 Memory has always been crucial to French literature and culture as a means of mediating the relationship between perception and knowledge of the individual coming to terms with his identity in time Relatively recently memory has also emerged as the key force in the creation of a collective consciousness in the wider perspective of French cultural history This collection of essays selected from the proceedings of a seminar on Memory given by Dr Emma Wilson at the University of Cambridge offers a fresh evaluation of memory as both a cultural and an individual phenomenon in modern and contemporary French culture including literature cinema and the visual arts Anamnesia the book s title develops the Aristotelian concept of anamnesis recollection as a dynamic and creative process which includes forgetting as much as remembering concealment as much as imagination Memory in this extremely diverse range of essays is therefore far from being presented as a straightforward process of recalling the past but emerges as the site of research and renegotiation of contradictions and even aporia

Le mensonge Kate Averis, Matthew Moran, 2010-09-13 This collection of essays considers the political social literary and artistic impact of the pervasive dichotomy of truth and lies in the context of French society and culture A fundamental element of our social existence the notion of le mensonge underpins how we participate in and respond to all aspects of society from the political process to the capacity of art literature and other aesthetic forms to fulfill a representative function This book explores the ways in which French society and culture is regulated by the overriding oppositional structure of truth and lies and the impact this has on both collective and individual existence The theme brings together research from diverse disciplines of the Humanities from political science to literature film music and visual arts in a work that will be of great relevance to a wide range of students and researchers alike As such the theme serves as a means of gaining an insight into the range and scope of research currently being conducted in French studies The book will be useful as a support text for a range of academic courses including those in the fields of cultural studies literary studies political studies and sociology On a larger scale it posits the theme's potential to develop as an independent area of study and offers a starting point for future academic study devoted to the idea of le mensonge
