

PSYCHOLOGY: CHAPTER 1 – What is Psychology?

1. Defining Psychology

- Psychology – the scientific study of behavior and mental processes
  - a. Science
  - b. Behavior
  - c. Mental processes
- Science – the use of systematic methods to observe the natural world, including human behavior, and to draw conclusions

Goal of psychological science → describe, predict and explain behavior

- GOAL: controlling or changing behavior using scientific methods
- Ex. Reduce violence or promote happiness

Example:

Study devised to see if people will help a stranger who's fallen down... researchers observe and come to:

- 1) Describe helping behavior by seeing how many times it occurs
  - 2) Predict who will help, when (happy people more incline, women or men?)
  - 3) Explain after analyzing data
    - a. Does that lead them to be interested in changing behavior?
- Behavior – everything we do that can be directly observed
    - o 2 people kissing, baby crying
  - Mental processes – thoughts, feelings and motives each of us experiences privately but cannot be observed directly
    - o thinking about kissing someone, a baby's feelings

The Psychological Frame of Mind

- Critical thinking – the process of reflecting deeply and actively, asking questions, and evaluating the evidence → asking ourselves HOW we know something
  - o reduces the likelihood that unreliable conclusions will be made
  - o psychologists are critical thinkers

Core of scientific approach are four attitudes:

- 1) critical thinking
  - 2) skepticism – challenge whether a supposed fact is really true
  - 3) objectivity – seeing things as they really are, not as we would like them to be
  - 4) curiosity – noticing things and wanting to know what it is and why it is that way
- Pseudoscience – information that is couched in scientific terminology but not supported by sound scientific research
  - Empirical method – gaining knowledge through the observation of events, the collection of data, and logical reasoning
    - o Open to the evidence thinking objectively

Debate and controversy are apart of natural thinking in psychology... such an advanced field because psychologists don't always agree with each other
