Truth and Words Gary Ebbs,2011-04-14 To clarify and facilitate our inquiries we need to define a disquotational truth predicate that we are directly licensed to apply not only to our own sentences as we use them now but also to other speakers sentences and our own sentences as we used them in the past The conventional wisdom is that there can be no such truth predicate For it appears that the only instances of the disquotational pattern that we are directly licensed to accept are those that define is true for our own sentences as we use them now Gary Ebbs shows that this appearance is illusory He constructs an account of words that licenses us to rely not only on formal spelling based identifications of our own words but also on our non deliberative practical identifications of other speakers words and of our own words as we used them in the past To overturn the conventional wisdom about disquotational truth Ebbs argues we need only combine this account of words with our disquotational definitions of truth for sentences as we use them now The result radically transforms our understanding of truth and related topics including anti individualism self knowledge and the intersubjectivity of logic Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare United States.
