Risko, Differences in performance between students of poverty and more advantaged students are reflective of an opportunity gap as opposed to a gap in student ability This book argues that significant attention must be given to eliminating the barriers that produce educational inequities in student achievement Walker Dalhouse and Risko focus on disparities in literacy achievement that might be attributed to color blind practices deficit mindsets low expectations or context neutral practices Situating literacy learning within a comprehensive view of literacy development they provide a set of instructional practices that will best support students living in poverty Specifically vignettes from kindergarten through middle school classrooms are used to demonstrate practices that address critical areas of the reading process are responsive

Place: Join in! ,2000 Robert Burton and the Transformative Powers of Melancholy Asst Prof Stephanie Shirilan,2015-11-28 In this study Stephanie Shirilan unearths and contextualizes the celebration of the powers of the melancholic imagination in Burton s Anatomy of Melancholy thus rescuing it from the overly literal readings of contemporary historicism Situating Burton s recognition of cognitive and spiritual impressionability in its physiological and theological contexts Shirilan identifies overlooked echoes of his advice that melancholic readers cure themselves by unsealing their minds and hearts Collaborative Creative Thought and Practice in Music Margaret S. Barrett,2016-05-23 The notion of the individual creator a product in part of the Western romantic ideal is now troubled by accounts and explanations of creativity as a social construct While in collectivist cultures the assimilation but not the denial of individual authorship into the complexities of group production and benefit has been a feature the notion of the lone individual creator has been persistent Systems theories acknowledge the role of others yet at heart these are still individual views of creativity focusing on the creative individual drawing upon the work of others rather than recognizing the mutually constitutive elements of social interactions across time and space Focusing on the domain of music the approach taken in this book falls into three sections investigations of the people processes products and places of collaborative creativity in compositional thought and practice explorations of the ways in which creative collaboration provides a means of crossing boundaries between disciplines such as music performance and musicology and studies of the emergence of creative thought and practice in educational contexts including that of the composer and the classroom The volume concludes with an extended chapter that reflects on the ways in which the studies reported advance understandings of creative thought and practice The book provides new perspectives to our understandings of the role of collaborative thought and processes in creative work across the domain of music including composition musicology performance music education and music psychology Resources in Education ,2001-04 Early Literacy For Under-Fives Karen Boardman,2024-01-05 Embracing a multi modal approach
