Unconventional creative and highly original Wang Min'an's work centres on the assemblage of household machines that create the space of contemporary domesticity It offers pathways to a new understanding of how the sudden commodification of domestic space in China beginning in the late 1980s has transformed Chinese domestic life beyond recognition In terms of modern urban Chinese family life people do not just move into new apartments they move into new modes of living which involve new ways of relating to the world Wang's discussion on the reconstitution of Chinese domestic life its founding moral aesthetic political values is tremendously useful and enlightening In these essays the author stages a Latourian collapse of subject and object in adopting the point of view of both human and non human actants This volume brings a new sensibility to bear on objects of modern everyday life This work is not a China book but rather a work marked profoundly by China Wang experiments with the applicability of theory to what might be thought of as a transcultural common life embedded in mundane technologies The book is particularly concerned with rescuing everyday materiality and bodily life from the numb obscurity to which things have been relegated by modern consumerism and bourgeois hygiene This book is not an oddity from the mysterious East it is a playful experiment in writing from a unique scholar a leading thinker and theorist in the humanities in China and will be of interest to scholars and students of East Asian particularly Chinese political and domestic studies Naturopathy (The Nature's way of healing life) Jasnita Walia, MW151 MW189 and Dravidian

Translation and Identity in the Americas Edwin Gentzler, 2012-11-12 Translation is a highly contested site in the Americas where different groups often with competing literary or political interests vie for space and approval In its survey of these multiple and competing groups and its study of the geographic socio political and cultural aspects of translation Edwin Gentzler's book demonstrates that the Americas are a fruitful terrain for the field of translation studies Building on research from a variety of disciplines including cultural studies linguistics feminism and ethnic studies and including case studies from Brazil Canada and the Caribbean this book shows that translation is one of the primary means by which a culture is constructed translation in the Americas is less something that happens between separate and distinct cultures and more something that is capable of establishing those very cultures Using a variety of texts and addressing minority and oppressed groups within cultures Translation and Identity in the Americas highlights by example the cultural role translation policies play in a discriminatory process the consequences of which can be social marginalization loss of identity and psychological trauma Translation and Identity the Americas will be critical reading for students and scholars of Translation Studies Comparative Literature and Cultural Studies
