Tourism Strategies and Local Responses in Southern Africa Petri Hottola, 2009. This book discusses tourism development in Namibia. It consists of 12 major chapters. Chapter 2 explores the opportunities and challenges of implementing a national tourism policy in Namibia as perceived by tourism entrepreneurs. Chapter 3 presents the South African experiences for local economic development. LED in rural route tourism also a potentially strategic tool for development through tourism in the rest of Southern Africa. Chapter 4 discusses the modernization approach to tourism development both in theory and practice. Chapter 5 discusses their commoditization in the Namibian tourism promotion thereby defining their symbolic role in Namibian tourism development policies. Chapter 6 evaluates the applicability of the strategic objectives and government policy in regard to community based catering services among the Hananwa. Chapter 7 analyses the effectiveness of tourism development in the simultaneous achievement of successful nature conservation and better means of subsistence in the Okavango Delta. Chapter 8 analyses the resources and restraints of coastal bird tourism in Namibia. Chapter 9 explores the awareness and responses of the Southern African tourism sector to control HIV/AIDS and the perceptions on the effects of the disease on its operational environment. The process of mutual learning is however a complicated one and has a number of critical points as described in Chapter 10. Chapter 11 elaborates on the applicability of information and communication technology (ICT) for school based tourism marketing in Namibia based on experiences and studies in his former home region the eastern Caprivi Strip. Chapter 12 discuss the possibilities for communities in or close to the park to benefit from its existence focusing on the partnerships between the Makuleke community, the park's management and the private sector and on a comparative situation on the Mozambican side in the former Coutada Sixteen National Park. Chapter 13 discusses some of the lessons learned from the Southern African case studies are brought together to outline the current issues of strategic tourism development in terms of both academic research and applied work in the tourism sector.

Nature-Based Tourism in Asia's Mountainous Protected Areas Thomas E. Jones, Huong T. Bui, Michal Apollo, 2021-07-23. This book provides holistic insights into management of protected areas across East Asia and identifies current trends in mountain tourism within the broader field of human geography and nature conservation. The book describes the diversification in visitors and expanding protected areas territories in different Asian countries during recent years. It also compares protected areas networks in the context of the changing demographic profiles of visitors and provides an interdisciplinary transnational appraisal of mountain based tourism in Asia based on national and international statistics. The research combines specific case studies at the individual country and destination level with trans regional trends thereby offering analysis from both the perspective of supply parks protected areas and stakeholders and demand mountain tourist market trends and segments The book is a useful resource for students and academics in tourism and protected areas studies as well as social scientists and policy makers interested in Asian countries

Biodiversity and Ecological Economics Luca Tacconi, 2017-09-25 It is vital that we adopt interdisciplinary approaches such as ecological economics to gain an understanding of the values that determine human interaction with and use and abuse of the environment This book is a model of applied ecological economics It presents an accessible introduction to the subject while at the same time broadening its theoretical basis by introducing a post positivist participatory method The theoretical framework is applied to case studies in biodiversity conservation drawn from around the world and a range of different ecosystems The book is a suitable textbook for students of ecological economics and an ideal introduction for scientists and environmentalists needing to understand the role of economics in ecology and conservation

Sustainable Development and Learning William Scott, Stephen Gough, 2003 In this important new book the authors explore the role of learning in sustainable development The book sets out the key issues and raises concepts for discussion reflection and ongoing consideration by all stakeholders in this crucial field

The Politics and Economics of Park Management Terry Lee Anderson, Alexander James, 2001 The Politics and Economics of Park Management examines national protected area systems in both developed and developing countries that have made a transformation from fortress parks to a sustainable use model The contributors park management academics and members of nongovernmental organizations contend that successful institutional change in protected area systems involves not only the adoption of appropriate legal and regulatory regimes covering sustainable use but also the development of an informal culture of sustainable resource use among all of a park's stakeholders While this latter requirement is often difficult to achieve the contributors show how these informal attitudes may evolve over time both within the management structure of a park agency and the community of resource users The case studies cited represent examples of successful institutional change demonstrating both financial and conservation benefits to protected area agencies that should serve as model for managing parks today

Tourism: New directions and alternative tourism Stephen Williams, 2004 This collection of key articles from the most influential journals and books in the field examines what social scientists mean by the term tourism and what it means to be a tourist Carefully selected and introduced by the editor this material charts the sociological changes that have occurred in tourism and the change from the upper class grand tours of the late nineteenth century to the mass tourism of the present day The collection also assesses the economic impacts of tourism on local economies environmental considerations and whether the growth of tourism is sustainable in a post September 11th world Tourism Critical Concepts in the Social Sciences is an accessible and comprehensive resource designed for academics and scholars researching in tourism globalization and human geography

sets wetlands in their scientific economic and legal context before describing the main legal issues involved in implementing the Ramsar Convention Parts 3 6 take an increasingly broad focus dealing respectively with site specific and bioregional approaches to wetland management generally applicable techniques for managing damaging processes and activities and lastly regional and international frameworks for cooperation The book complements the recent work of scientists and economists by describing how laws and institutions can work for or against wetland conservation and wise use Each chapter makes the link between international legal obligations and national or local mechanisms for delivering implementation Drawing on national practice around the world the book illustrates how different legal approaches and techniques can be adapted to widely varying national conditions and capabilities Key components for legal and institutional frameworks suited to the challenge of wise use implementations are set out in the conclusion

Impact of Climate Change on Natural Resource Management Bipal Kr. Jana, Mrinmoy Majumder, 2010-06-27 As climate change takes hold there is an ever growing need to develop and apply strategies that optimize the use of natural resources both on land and in water This book covers a huge range of strategies that can be applied to various sectors from forests to flood control Its aim as with resource management itself is to combine economics policy and science to help rehabilitate and preserve our natural resources Beginning with papers on carbon sequestration including the practice of artificial desertification the topics move on to cover the use of distributed modeling and neural networks in estimating water availability and distribution Further chapters look at uncertainty analysis applied to the spatial variation of hydrologic resources and finally the book covers attempts at estimating meteorological parameters in the context of hydrological variables such as evapo transpiration from stream flow Within the next decade the effects of climate change will be severe and felt by ordinary human beings This book proposes a raft of measures that can mitigate if not reverse the impact of global warming on the resources we have all come to depend on

Contested Nature Steven R. Brechin, Peter R. Wilshusen, Crystal L. Fortwangler, Patrick C. West, 2012-02-01 How can the international conservation movement protect biological diversity while at the same time safeguarding the rights and fulfilling the needs of people particularly the poor Contested Nature argues that to be successful in the long term social justice and biological conservation must go hand in hand The protection of nature is a complex social enterprise and much more a process of politics and of human organization than ecology Although this political complexity is recognized by practitioners it rarely enters into the problem analyses that inform conservation policy Structured around conceptual chapters and supporting case studies that examine the politics of conservation in specific contexts the book shows that pursuing social justice enhances biodiversity conservation rather than diminishing it and that the fate of local peoples and that of conservation are completely intertwined

Environmental Management and Development Christopher J. Barrow, 2005 The environment and its management has been and continues to be a very topical issue Existing environment and development texts place emphasis is on listing problems making warnings and voicing advocacy but by focusing on environmental management this informative book offers a very different perspective Moving on from the usual much discussed viewpoints Barrow looks towards practical management and problem solving techniques He clarifies the definition nature and role of environmental management in development and developing countries beginning with an introduction to the key terms issues and tools of environmental management which are linked and developed in later chapters and concluding by discussing who pays for environmental management and its future in developing countries Written by an experienced and well known author this clear user friendly book ideal for students of resource management geography and development studies makes excellent use of chapter summaries boxed case studies annotated further readings and websites discussion questions and illustrations

Weak versus Strong Sustainability Eric Neumayer,2025-07-15 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 License It is free to read download and share on Elgaronline com This newly and fully revised fifth edition explores the two opposing paradigms of sustainability in an insightful and accessible way Eric Neumayer contends that central to the debate on sustainable development is the question of whether natural capital can be substituted by other forms of capital Using global warming and other major environmental issues as examples he shows how policies and solutions radically differ depending on which paradigm is more plausible

Tourism Geography Stephen Williams,2009-06-02 Tourism is an intensely geographic phenomenon It stimulates large scale global movement of people and forges distinctive relationships between people and the places they visit It shapes processes of physical development and resource exploitation whilst the presence of visitors exerts a range of economic social cultural and environmental impacts that often have important implications for local geographies This second edition of Tourism Geography develops a critical understanding of how different geographies of tourism are created and maintained Drawing on both historical and contemporary perspectives the discussion which is in three main parts connects tourism to key geographical concepts relating to globalization mobility new geographies of production and consumption and post industrial change Part one examines how spatial patterns of tourism are formed and evolve through time Part two offers an extended discussion of how tourism relates to places that are toured examining physical and economic development socio cultural and environmental relations and the role of tourism planning Part three develops a range of new material for this second edition that considers important contemporary influences upon tourism geographies including place promotion new forms of urban tourism heritage identity and embodied forms of tourism Featuring international case studies and supported by up to date statistics the text offers a concise yet comprehensive review of tourism geography and how geographers can interpret this important contemporary process Written primarily as a student text each chapter includes guidance for further study and summary bibliographies that form the basis for independent work
