Protecting Global Environment Gc:

Protecting Animals Within and Across Borders Charlotte E. Blattner, 2019 How can we protect animals more effectively both at home and abroad given the ongoing globalization of animal production This book provides a catalogue of options for extraterritorial jurisdiction which states can employ to strengthen their animal laws It offers top down perspectives drawn from general international law and trade law and complements them by a bottom up view from the perspective of animal law

The EU as a Global Regulator for Environmental Protection Ioanna Hadjiyianni, 2019-08-08 This book critically examines the extension of EU environmental legislation beyond EU borders through measures that determine access to the single market on the basis of processes that take place in third countries It makes a timely contribution to political debates about the relations between EU and non EU countries and the Union's role in the global governance of environmental policy where it has been considered a global leader The book aims to identify and explain the emerging legal phenomenon of internal environmental measures with extraterritorial implications as an important manifestation of EU global regulatory power and assesses the extraterritorial reach of EU environmental law from a legitimacy perspective It examines mechanisms that can bolster its legitimacy focusing on the legal orders of the EU and the World Trade Organization which are key legal fora for controlling the EU's global regulatory power

Control over Compliance with International Law William E. Butler, 2024-12-09 Of all the issues on the East West agenda none is more vital to the perestroika processes on the international plane than confidence on all sides that international legal obligations assumed will be wholly complied with Increasingly such confidence requires particular often intrusive machinery to ensure compliance to the satisfaction of the parties concerned The revolution under perestroika is that in East West relations the former protagonists now accept that machinery is required and the deliberations have moved onto the level of why how much and how it can best be accomplished The contributions to the present volume continuing and developing earlier Anglo Soviet symposia on public international law addresses the topic for the first time in a framework that transcends arms control and disarmament

Protecting the Ozone Layer Stephen O. Andersen, K. Madhava Sarma, 2012-05-23 In the 1970s the world became aware of a huge danger the destruction of the stratospheric ozone layer by CFCs escaping into the atmosphere and the damage this could do to human health and the food chain So great was the threat that by 1987 the UN had succeeded in coordinating an international treaty to phase out emissions which over the following 15 years has been implemented It has been hailed as an outstanding success It needed the participation of all the parties governments industry scientists campaigners NGOs and the media and is a model for future treaties This volume provides the authoritative and comprehensive history of the whole process from the earliest warning signs to the present It is an invaluable record for all those involved and a necessary reference for future negotiations to a wide range of scholars students and professionals

Global Approaches to Site Contamination Law Elizabeth Brandon, 2012-11-13 The book describes the complex and variable laws addressing site

contamination reviewing existing international regional and national law of relevance to site contamination It also offers detailed case studies of national approaches to the issue and goes on to explore avenues for promoting the development of comprehensive domestic laws on site contamination with a focus on the role of international law and actors A detailed discussion analyzes such variations as a binding international legal instrument a non binding instrument and a model framework for site contamination management The text includes recommendations regarding the key elements needed for regulating site contamination at the national level The author also offers an appropriate and feasible timetable for international action to promote better national law and policy regarding contaminated sites

Protecting the Marine Environment From Land-Based Sources of Pollution Daud Hassan, 2017-05-15 Global findings estimate that 80 per cent of marine pollution originates from land based sources and is trans boundary in nature These problems persist in spite of a number of legal and policy initiatives taken to protect the marine environment This volume explores the applications and shortcomings of current international regimes in addressing these issues The book identifies the sources and effects of land based marine pollution and analyzes the problems of controlling them Management principles policy and regulation are examined at both regional and international level The author discusses the strengths and weaknesses of existing regimes and advances a more effective international legal framework The text provides a valuable insight into an important area of international environmental law It will be of interest to researchers and policy makers working in this area
