Protecting Temperate Forests Protecting Habitats:

Protecting Temperate Forests Moira Butterfield, 2005-12-15 Discusses what kinds of trees and animals might be in a forest the natural enemies of these animals and trees how humans use forests and how to conserve them Protecting Rain Forests Moira Butterfield, 2006 Provides an overview of the world's precious rain forests and the unique creatures and plants that live there Also examines current threats to the rain forests survival and explains what is being done to protect them Protecting Wetlands Andrew Campbell, 2005-12-15 Describes what and where wetlands are the plants and animals that live in wetlands how people benefit and threaten wetlands and how these threats are being addressed Protecting Polar Regions Anita Ganeri, 2006 Presents an overview of the world's polar regions examining the plants and animals that live in the frozen regions and discussing why the habitats are endangered and what is being done to protect them The American Bird Conservancy Guide to Bird Conservation Daniel J. Lebbin, Michael J. Parr, George H. Fenwick, 2010-10-15 Whether we live in cities in the suburbs or in the country birds are ubiquitous features of daily life so much so that we often take them for granted But even the casual observer is aware that birds don't fill our skies in the number they once did That awareness has spawned conservation action that has led to notable successes including the recovery of some of the nation's most emblematic species such as the Bald Eagle Brown Pelican Whooping Crane and Peregrine Falcon Despite this a third of all American bird species are in trouble in many cases they're in imminent danger of extinction The most authoritative account ever published of the threats these species face The American Bird Conservancy Guide to Bird Conservation will be the definitive book on the subject The Guide presents for the first time anywhere a classification system and threat analysis for bird habitats in the United States the most thorough and scientifically credible assessment of threats to birds published to date as well as a new list of birds of conservation concern Filled with beautiful color illustrations and original range maps the Guide is a timely important and inspiring reference for birders and anyone else interested in conserving North America's avian fauna But this book is far more than another shout of crisis The Guide also lays out a concrete and achievable plan of long term action to safeguard our country's rich bird life Ultimately it is an argument for hope Whether you spend your early weekend mornings crouched in silence with binoculars in hand hoping to check another species off your list or you've never given much thought to bird conservation you'll appreciate the visual power and intellectual scope of these pages

Protected Areas and the Regional Planning Imperative in North America James Gordon Nelson, Lucy M. Sportza, 2003 Based on a workshop on Regional Approaches to Parks and Protected Areas in North America held at Tijuana Mexico March 1999 p xv Managing Protected Areas in Central and Eastern Europe Under Climate Change Sven Rannow, Marco Neubert, 2014-01-18 Beginning with an overview of data and concepts developed in the EU project HABIT CHANGE this book addresses the need for sharing knowledge and experience in the field of biodiversity conservation and climate change There is an urgent need to build capacity in protected areas to monitor assess manage and report the effects of climate change and their interaction with other pressures The contributors identify barriers to the adaptation of conservation management such as the mismatch between planning reality and the decision context at site level Short and vivid descriptions of case studies drawn from investigation areas all over Central and Eastern Europe illustrate both the local impacts of climate change and their consequences for future management These focus on ecosystems most vulnerable to changes in climatic conditions including alpine areas wetlands forests lowland grasslands and coastal areas The case studies demonstrate the application of adaptation strategies in protected areas like National Parks Biosphere Reserves and Natural Parks and reflect the potential benefits as well as existing obstacles A general section provides the necessary background information on climate trends and their effects on abiotic and biotic components Often the parties to policy change and conservation management including managers land users and stakeholders lack both expertise and incentives to undertake adaptation activities The authors recognise that achieving the needed changes in behavior habit is as much a social learning process as a matter of science based procedure They describe the implementation of modeling impact assessment and monitoring of climate conditions and show how the results can support efforts to increase stakeholder involvement in local adaptation strategies The book concludes by pointing out the need for more work to communicate the cross sectoral nature of biodiversity protection the value of well informed planning in the long term process of adaptation the definition of acceptable change and the motivational value of exchanging experience and examples of good practice

Adapting to Climate Change in Eastern Europe and Central Asia Marianne Fay, Rachel Block, Jane Ebinger, 2010-01-28 Adapting to Climate Change in Eastern Europe and Central Asia presents an overview of what adaptation to climate change might mean for the countries of the region of Eastern Europe and Central Asia ECA The next decade offers a window of opportunity for ECA countries to make their development more resilient to climate change

Arguments for Protected Areas Sue Stolton, Nigel Dudley, 2010-08-12 Most protected areas e g national parks and nature reserves have been created to protect wildlife and land and seascape values They currently cover over 13% of the world s land surface around 12% of marine coastal areas and 4% of the marine shelf Retaining and expanding these areas in the future will depend on showing their wider benefits for society This book provides a concise and persuasive overview of the values of protected areas Contributing authors from over fifty countries examine a wide range of values that are maintained in protected areas including food water and materials health tourism cultural and spiritual values and buffering capacity against climate change and natural disasters The book also considers the role of protected areas in poverty reduction strategies their relationship with traditional and indigenous people and in fostering conflict resolution through peace parks initiatives The chapters draw on a series of authoritative reports published by WWF over recent years under the Arguments for Protection banner in association with various partners and on additional research carried out especially for the volume It analyses the opportunities and limitations of protected areas for supplying the various values along with practical advice for planners and managers about maximising benefits It provides an important contribution to the debate about the role of protected areas in conservation and other aspects of natural resource management and human livelihoods Published with WWF
