International Control of Sea Resources Shigeru Oda, 2021-11-15 Fisheries Regulations Under Extended Jurisdiction and International Law William T. Burke, 1982-01-01 This paper discusses two of the problems associated with the changes taking place in the international law of the sea The first of these deals with the transit of fishing vessels through zones of national jurisdiction beyond the territorial sea Transiting fishing vessels have an interest in expeditious transit and the coastal States have an interest in ensuring that the vessel is not fishing within its zone during transit passage This conflict in interest is examined and various alternatives for resolving the conflict are appraised in terms of the international law of the sea The second problem is that of the regulation of fishing for highly migratory species in high seas enclaves beyond national jurisdiction The interests of fishing and coastal States are examined in the light of developments in customary and conventional international law Although the problems discussed are of primary interest to the South Pacific States they are also relevant to other regions of the world Japanese Maritime Security and Law of the Sea Yurika Ishii,2021-12-20 Japan the geopolitical lynchpin in the East Asian region has developed a unique maritime security policy and interpretation of the law of the sea Japanese Maritime Security and the Law of the Sea is the first title to provide a comprehensive and detailed analysis on these themes in English examines Japan s domestic laws and its approach to international law The topics covered include Japan s claim over its maritime entitlement policies on the use of force at sea and the mandates of the Self Defense Force and the Japan Coast Guard to use coercive measures in maritime zones and airspace both in peacetime and in times of emergency Emergency Marine Fisheries Protection Act of 1974 United States.
